

SHOULDERS AND HARVILL ARE CHARGED WITH CARR MURDER

Discovery of Revolver Believed Used in East Side Killing Reported — Blood Stains in Tavern.

Louis D. Shoulders and George (Stormy) Harvill were charged in a warrant today with the murder of Bobby Gene Carr, former St. Louis taxi driver whose body was found July 21 in the trunk of his automobile.

Shoulders is a son of former St. Louis Police Lt. Louis Shoulders, now serving a prison term for perjury in the Greenleaf ransom inquiry.

Harvill is the operator of the C & J Tavern at 8912 Collinsville road, near Fairmount race track. He and Shoulders, who has been working for him as a bartender, were questioned previously in the Carr murder, but denied any knowledge of it.

Madison county authorities have been told Carr was killed in Harvill's East Side roadhouse, the Post-Dispatch was informed. When two shots failed to kill the 24-year-old St. Louisan, he was stabbed, then shot once again as he lay on the floor, officials were told.

Revolver Found. Ballistics tests have shown that a .38-caliber revolver which reportedly was in the C & J Tavern was used to fire one of the bullets that struck Carr, the Post-Dispatch learned. The firearm was found in the home of a tavern employee, who reportedly slipped the revolver out of the roadhouse some time after the murder, Madison county authorities were told.

An examination of the roadhouse made recently by State Attorney Fred P. Schuman of Madison county and deputy sheriffs disclosed a large blood stain on the floor near the back door.

There was also a bullet hole in a wall. Schuman and his assistants cut down weeds and combed the area around the tavern, looking for spent bullets.

The warrant against Harvill and Shoulders were issued last yesterday by Justice of the Peace M. G. Schauer. The Harvill case is a complaint filed by Schuman.

Martin Also Accused. Also charged with the murder of Carr is Bobby Martin, a St. Louis taxi driver, who shared an apartment with Shoulders at 826 Clara avenue. Martin has been extradited to Madison county on the murder charge.

Harvill and Shoulders have told authorities that Carr was in the C & J Tavern early on the morning of July 19. Carr is believed to have been killed that night, although his body was not found until two days later.

Carr's automobile had been left on the parking lot of a mine at Williamson, a small Illinois community 30 miles northeast of St. Louis. An autopsy showed he had been stabbed once and shot three times.

An attorney representing Harvill, who lives in East St. Louis, said the tavern operator left town recently as a result of orders from Chief Deputy Sheriff Clifford Flood of St. Clair county.

No Request for Arrest. St. Louis police have received no request to arrest Shoulders. A former taxi driver, Shoulders is 24 years old. He served in the United States Army in Texas and Colorado before being discharged in October 1953.

Authorities learned that Carr and Martin had quarreled bitterly over Carr's 25-year-old wife, Bernice, who had been living in the apartment building on Clara avenue since separating from her husband recently.

A sheet found in Martin's automobile was stained with blood of the same type as that which was on clothing of the murdered man, a St. Louis police laboratory analysis disclosed.

CONGRESS HANDS PRESIDENT SHARP REBUFF IN ACTION ON HOUSING BILL

Eisenhower Expected to Sign It Despite Veto Talk and Last-Minute Effort to Force Changes.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—The House overrode last-minute presidential objections yesterday and completed action on a compromise, omnibus housing bill. It was the sharpest rebuff the Democratic-controlled Eighty-fourth Congress has handed President Eisenhower.

The bill, which authorizes construction of 45,000 new public housing units in the year that ends next July 31, cleared the House on a closely contested 187-to-168 roll-call vote. It had been approved by the Senate Monday night.

"The measure now goes to the White House."

House passage came in the face of a determined Administration drive to send the bill back to a Senate-House conference committee for changes that had been urged by Mr. Eisenhower. The Administration campaign to revise the measure was launched at the White House yesterday morning after Republican congressional leaders had met with President Eisenhower.

Martin Shifts Attitude.

House Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, said then—and later warned the House—that Mr. Eisenhower might call Congress back for a special session if it did not enact a satisfactory housing bill. But once the House had voted to endorse an unaltered bill, Martin told reporters that he considers a special session unlikely. He added that he does not expect Mr. Eisenhower to veto the measure.

Representative Jesse P. Wadsworth (Rep., Michigan), an adamant foe of public housing and the ranking minority member of the Banking Committee, told the House that the compromise bill has provisions that are "tasteful to many of us, including the President of the United States."

Martin read the House a special statement by Housing and Home Finance Administrator Albert M. Cole charging that the compromise is loaded with "objectionable features." Cole said his public housing provision "sabotages the President's program."

He complained that the bill knocks out existing statutory restrictions that limit the construction of public housing facilities to units needed to rehouse families displaced by slum clearance projects.

He protested also that it eliminates a statutory requirement that prohibits granting public housing funds to any community that has not presented a so-called "workable plan" for preventing slums and urban blight in the future.

The real estate lobby has consistently supported the restrictions. The public housing lobby has just as consistently protested that they hamper the public housing program.

Other Alleged Defects. Cole said "other objectionable features" of the bill include Federal Housing Administration insurance of trailer park mortgages, an expanded program or direct government loans for local construction of public facilities and a provision that makes the Home Loan Bank board an independent agency.

The bill "totally distorts the principles and purposes of the Administration's objectives," he declared.

Martin said later that Mr. Eisenhower as a matter of administrative practice will not have to use many of the provisions he dislikes.

House Democrats countered Republican demands that the bill be rewritten by warning that Congress would enact the compromise bill or none. They banked heavily on Republican reluctance to risk killing a bill that contains not only public housing provisions but substantial assistance for private home-builders as well.

The bill adds $3,400,000,000 to the Federal Housing Administration's authority to insure privately financed home mortgages. It continues the existing FHA home repair and improvement assistance program to Sept. 30, 1956, and authorizes the construction of 100,000 new military housing units during the same period.

The military housing units would be privately built, and would be financed by FHA mortgages. The Government would take title to them under lease-purchase arrangements when the mortgages mature.

The bill makes $500,000,000 available for slum clearance and urban redevelopment grants to local agencies during the two years ending June 30, 1957.

The compromise bill reconciles a Senate measure that provides for 135,000 units a year and a House bill that made no provision for public housing. The Senate also had voted to build 10,000 publicly financed homes a year for elderly, needy people.

DRAFT CALL FOR OCTOBER AGAIN IS SET AT 10,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—The Army yesterday issued a draft call for 10,000 men in October, the same quota previously announced for each of the last five months.

The new call brings to 1,949,430 the total number drafted or earmarked for induction since selective service was resumed in September 1950.

House Throws off its Dignity, Sings And Frolics in Session's Final Hours

Restraints of the last seven months are forgotten and scraps of paper fill the air as page boys join in the celebration which marked the adjournment of the House last night.

Chamber Joins in 'Moonlight and Roses'—Morse Reads Long Speech in Senate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Congressional dignity and law-making tensions dissolved into hijinks, harmony and rollicking high spirits in the closing hours of the 1955 House session last night.

Oldtimers said they had seldom if ever seen such a boisterous outburst of monkeyshines in the House chamber.

Over in the Senate things were quieter. Up almost to the last minute Senator Morse (Dem., Oregon), was reading a long speech on federal aid to education, while one by one his colleagues slipped away.

Morse kept on, even when Senator Lehman (Dem., New York), came up for a farewell handshake.

In the House the joint was jumping. Members had cleared their calendars, and about 100 of them hung around waiting on the Senate. Just before 9 p.m. Representative Priest (Dem., Tennessee), a barbershop tenor, started it all by assembling a chorus of harmonizers. Before it was over, even the packed gallery had joined in a chorus of "Moonlight and Roses."

Representative Friedel (Dem.), did a "bird" imitation. He slipped from a glass. That was a "swallow."

At one point in the hour and a half floor show, an elderly woman in red jumped to her feet in the visitors' gallery and shouted to Representative Rabaut (Dem., Michigan):

"Hey Senator, I'd like to get in on this, too."

Rabaut ignored this breach of rules at the time. Later he went to the gallery to give her a handshake. Gallery attendants said she gave her name as Mrs. Lotie Fitzgerald Lively of Louisville, Ky.

"It's my first visit to Congress and I'm enjoying it thoroughly," she told them.

Representative Chelf (Dem., Kentucky), brought the House down, figuratively, with harmonica renditions, swaying like a hula dancer and stomping his feet.

The noisy chamber hushed while William Goodwin, 18-year-old red-haired page boy from Pontiac, Mich., sang "The Lord's Prayer" in a rich, deep voice. Goodwin, who got a standing ovation of several minutes, said he had been a music student. That was obviously more than could be said for some of the other singers.

Goodwin asked Chelf for a "B" note on the harmonica for pitch.

"Sorry buddy," said Chelf. "I don't know one note from the other."

Representative Gray (Dem., Illinois), ranted loudly through a professional sounding to a cello and orchestra's chant. As members shouted "sold," Gray interjected: "Not until I'm through." He finally wound up with "sold for $120" to Representative Wickensham (Dem., Oklahoma).

Bill Falkner, a page from Decatur, Ga., recited "The Face on the Bartmoom Floor."

But most of the gems consisted of supposed music—ranging from Rabaut's solo on "I Need An Old-Fashioned Girl" to mass singing.

Representative Coia Knutson (Dem., Minnesota), the only woman member to join the variety of solos, duets, quartets and on up, gave the songsters a badly needed soprano.

SAYS PRESIDENT 'TOOK EASY WAY OUT' ON TALBOTT

Butler Asserts Ethical Issue Was Dodged; Criticizes Brownell's Failure to Act.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said President Eisenhower chose "the easy way out" in accepting the resignation of Harold E. Talbott as Secretary of the Air Force. He said the President had sidestepped the issue of ethics.

Butler issued a statement yesterday calling the Talbott resignation "a case of unpunished unethical conduct." He also criticized Attorney General Brownell's part in the matter. He said Brownell had known for some months that the propriety of Talbott's conduct had been questioned.

"Did this Administration's chief law enforcement officer take vigorous and prompt steps to end this deviation from an uncompromising code of ethics in government?" Butler asked. "He did nothing of the sort."

Butler said the new rule of the Administration seemed to be "don't get caught" or "if you do get caught, we'll let you resign."

Mr. Eisenhower told his press conference last week he would read the record of a Senate investigation of Talbott's outside business interests and make his decision on Talbott on the basis of ethics involved.

The White House announced Talbott's resignation Monday. Accepting it, Mr. Eisenhower said Talbott had made the "right" decision. Talbott will step out Aug. 13.

Talbott has acknowledged some mistakes of judgment but denied using his office to promote business for a private management engineering firm in which he held a special partnership.

As for the Senate investigation subcommittee's inquiry into Talbott's business interests, Chairman John L. McClellan (Dem., Arkansas), indicated the case is just about closed.

McClellan told reporters the subcommittee would "have an announcement within a day or two," but added: "There is no immediate probability that any further hearings will be held in the Talbott matter."

McClellan's subcommittee met for nearly an hour behind closed doors but left in mystery what it may have decided about writing a report on its inquiry.

Talks May Lead to Basic Issues Of Red China in U.N., Recognition

Some Diplomats Believe U.S. May Be Holding Out Consent as Bait for Non-Force Pledge by Peiping.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—The Eisenhower Administration is moving with unexpected speed to make a series of settlements with Red China which may eventually produce far more peaceful conditions in the Far East.

In relations between Red China and the United States, diplomacy and polite dealings appear to be displacing loud talk and threats. This parallels the United States-Russian relations at the Geneva summit conference.

If further negotiations with Peiping develop, as seems likely, the Washington government may soon confront basic questions of relations with Red China which have been hot political issues and have raised difficulty with allies in the Far East.

Among these are the touchy questions of Red Chinese membership in the United Nations, United States recognition of the Peiping government, and restrictions on trade.

Speculation on U. N. Issue.

The United Press, in a Geneva dispatch, quoted western diplomats there as saying "it may not be too long" before Peiping wins membership in the U. N. First, however, they said, Red China must make a genuine success of the current Geneva talks and convince Washington it is ready for a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait.

(The diplomats, whose names were not given, said they believed the United States might be holding out diplomatic recognition and a seat in the U. N. as bait for Peiping in return for a pledge not to resort to force to gain its strategic goals.)

Dulles Expresses Hope.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told his press conference yesterday that the United States hoped that Communist China would promise to renounce the use of force. He told reporters at the same time that recent conciliatory actions by the Chinese "might mark the beginning of a new phase in Chinese Communist relations with the rest of the world."

If the Chinese Communists will live up to the United Nations Charter, Dulles said, they will make themselves eligible to negotiate on topics about which civilized nations normally do negotiate.

The effect of Dulles's comments appeared to be to open the door to a wide range of talks with the Chinese Reds in the months ahead.

The U. N. and recognition issues arouse strong opposition in Congress, and they are problems upon which the United States does not see eye to eye with Britain.

Britain, which recognizes the Peiping regime, has stalled in the past on the question of U. N. membership for Red China, but authorities here and in London have always foreseen that sooner or later the problem would have to be faced directly.

Vote in U. N. Was 43 to 11. When it was raised last fall by Russia, the General Assembly approved a United States move to shelve the issue for the 1954 session. The vote was 43-11 with six abstentions.

At the moment, diplomats here are not certain how the problem will be handled in the session meeting in September. Whether Britain and the United States can once again agree to stall is an open question.

The recognition issue is purely one for Washington to decide as far as its relations with Red China are concerned. But the more the United States and Red China engage in direct negotiations, the more clearly a trend toward recognition becomes apparent.

The act itself may still be a long way off. But the practical result of recognition—that is, the ability to negotiate problems with another country—becomes more and more a fact of international life.

This is obviously not to the liking of two of America's far eastern allies, South Korea and the Nationalist Government on Formosa. Both regard Red China as a mortal enemy. Washington may thus find it has its hands full on occasion trying to keep these feelings in check.

Senator Sparkman (Dem., Alabama), said he favored expanding talks with the Red Chinese to cover all of the problems in which they are involved in Asia. But he said this country should not accept at face value any "paper agreement" that the Communists will not resort to force.

Senator Aiken (Rep., Vermont), said any agreement the Chinese Communists might make disavowing the use of force should be regarded with caution, but that it might help clear the air for some sort of general conference on Asian problems.

"Even if talks at a conference of this kind didn't lead to any agreement, they probably would have the effect of postponing any violent action in the area," he said.

U.S. GRAND JURY TO INVESTIGATE GASOLINE FIRMS

Judge Says Government Contends Industry Fixes Prices in Violation of Law.

BOSTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—A federal grand jury was impaneled today to investigate the gasoline industry, in what United States District Judge William T. McCarthy said was a Government contention the industry violated the federal Anti-Trust Act by price fixing.

Judge McCarthy departed from the usual secret procedures of grand juries to announce in open court that the jury is to investigate the gasoline industry. He said the inquiry would go into the practices followed by major gasoline and oil companies and retail outlets.

Judge McCarthy said he was departing from custom in making his statement in open court because the public has a "right to know the purpose" of the investigation.

In addition, he disclosed, the grand jury will hear testimony about the operation of rolled gold plate and concrete pipe and pipe machinery industries.

He said rolled gold plate is used in many industries for watch bands, cases and tie clasps.

The grand jurors, many of whom were recalled from vacations for the session, were told the inquiry may be a long one, running into months.

FRENCH PARACHUTISTS BEAT ALTITUDE MARK OF SWISS

CHAMONIX, France, Aug. 3 (UPI)—Three French "Black Angel" parachutists today bailed out over Mont Blanc, Europe's tallest peak, and landed safely near the top of the 15,781-foot, ice-bound mountain.

The Black Angels thus beat by 645 feet the altitude record of 15,136 feet established by a Swiss team.

The French team jumped from a De Havilland transport. The dropping area was a narrow surface 200 by 500 yards. The jumpers wore black suits for easier spotting against the snow.

A group of mountaineers set out from the valley to escort the jumpers down the treacherous trails to safety.

TWO ON COUNTY COUNCIL FAVOR OCT. 4 BOND VOTE, THREE UNDECIDED

One Opposed to Date, Seventh Member Out of Town — Davis to Seek Perfection of Bill Again.

Two members of the St. Louis County Council said today they favor Oct. 4 as the date for a bond issue election on expressways and children's buildings, three said they were undecided and one was opposed, a poll by the Post-Dispatch disclosed. The seventh member, who has previously supported the proposal, was out of the city.

Councilman L. Gordon Davis said he would again move at today's council meeting to perfect a bill calling for an election Oct. 4 on a $8,500,000 proposition to provide the county's share of right-of-way costs for four expressways and an $800,000 item for children's buildings. Two of the proponents were not expected to attend today's meeting, however.

Councilman Harold D. Carey, who did not vote when the proposal was considered previously, told the Post-Dispatch he favored the Oct. 4 date but did not expect to attend today's meeting.

Councilman James A. Singer, who has supported Davis' efforts in the past to set the Oct. 4 date, was absent from the city on vacation.

Abramson Opposed.

Those who said they were now undecided on the question were Chairman Frank L. Martini, Thomas C. Dunne and James H. J. McNary, all of whom have voted against the proposal.

Councilman Maurice Abramson said he was definitely opposed to holding the election on that date unless a full program of civic improvements can be submitted with the two propositions.

Davis said he would urge very strongly that the bill for the Oct. 4 election be perfected today so that it might be in shape for passage at next week's meeting. He expressed the opinion the $8,500,000 expressway program could be paid off by a tax increase of about 4 cents, which voters would be likely to approve, whereas they might balk at a more ambitious road program that might add 24 to 30 cents to the rate.

Davis added that he has no objection to the inclusion of other projects but that only the two items on the ballot. Petitions for an election on the expressways and children's buildings projects have been on file with the council for several months.

Carey told the Post-Dispatch he felt the Council was legally bound to put these two propositions on the ballot as a result of the petitions. He said he would vote, if present, to put both on the Oct. 4 ballot, adding that his position did not constitute an endorsement of the projects, particularly the routes of the expressways.

Martini's Stand.

Martini, who has been a leader of the opposition to the State Highway Commission route for the Daniel Boone Expressway through Richmond Heights, said he was not adverse to holding a bond issue election on Oct. 4, when state-wide balloting on the public school foundation program and a rise in the cigarette tax will take place.

"I would like to see additional propositions on the ballot," he said, "but I have not decided whether I will support or oppose Oct. 4 for just the expressways and children's buildings alone. It might be a good idea to let the people backing the Daniel Boone route go to the polls and get beaten and come to their senses."

McNary said he was not opposed to Oct. 4 as the date for an election on the two propositions, but felt the council should receive final recommendations from the Citizens Bond Issue Screening Committee before acting.

Dunne, also undecided, said he thought the two propositions might not attract sufficient voter

VOTING RULES BUT NO VOTE IN OFFING FOR WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Voteless Washington would get its first official set of voting rules since 1874 under legislation passed yesterday by the House and sent to President Eisenhower.

The bill, sponsored by Representative Simpson (Rep., Ill.), adds no voting right but sets up methods for electing District of Columbia delegates to presidential nominating conventions.

Delegates from the district have been chosen for years by methods set up by the major political parties.

Congress in 1874 took away local suffrage in the district and there has been no official voting machinery here since that time.

TOURISTS TOSS THE COINS, WORKMEN HAVE THE LUCK

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 3 (AP)—A coin-tossing tradition at Niagara Falls has brought good luck for workmen now doing construction work there.

For years tourists have been leaning over rails to flip coins in the water for luck. Recently a cofferdam was built to divert water from the work site and many of the coins were left high and dry.

The lucky payoff for the workmen was estimated at several hundred dollars.

PAINTER KILLED IN FALL AT GRANITE CITY STEEL

Charles Sumner, a painter, was killed yesterday when he fell 18 feet to a concrete floor at Granite City Steel Co., where he was employed. He was 45 years old and lived in Caseyville. He died of a skull fracture at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Granite City, shortly after the fall.

The accident occurred, a company spokesman said, as Sumner was directing less-experienced men in replacing rusted sections of a sloping corrugated roof.

ATTEMPT TO SET UP NEW INDOONESIAN CABINET FAILS

JAKARTA, Aug. 3 (UPI)—A three-man committee appointed to form a new Indonesian cabinet reported failure today to Vice President Mohammed Hatta.

The committee said it was returning its mandate because Indonesia's two largest political parties could not agree on who should become Prime Minister.

Some sources believed Hatta now would await the return of President Soekarno from Mecca Friday before trying again.

participation if submitted alone. While favoring all four expressways, he said he thought some "sorely needed" roads in the north and south portions of the county would encourage a greater turnout of voters.

Awaits Complete Program.

Abramson said he had been informed the screening committee would be prepared to present a complete program of civic improvements at next Wednesday's meeting of the Council.

"Then I'll be ready to vote for Oct. 4 or any other date because I want a comprehensive program presented at the earliest possible date," he said. "I'm going to insist that it be presented either in October or certainly no later than November."

Council approval of the Daniel Boone route through Richmond Heights was urged in a telegram sent to Chairman Martini by the Brentwood Chamber of Commerce. The Council said it favored the route because it ran straight through the county, crossed every important cross-town artery and was centrally located to most users.

ADMITTS HE STABBED 2 'TO HEAR SCREAMS'

Youth, 14, Held for Injuring Women—Also Confesses Stealing Watch.

A 14-year-old boy admitted yesterday he stabbed two women on streets last Friday night because he wanted "to hear them scream."

Police arrested the youth, who lives on Jamieson avenue, in an investigation of the theft of a $300 wristwatch from the home of Mrs. Theresa Costa, 6514 Walsh street, where the boy had been a visitor Monday. He admitted the theft and turned the watch over to police.

Under further questioning, he admitted the two Friday night stabbings. He said he was riding his bicycle on January avenue near Wherry avenue when he noticed Miss Rose Schuster, 5738 Walsh street, walking on Wherry. He dismounted from the bicycle and stabbed her with a leather worker's awl, he said.

He then rode on, parked his bicycle in an alley and waited for her to approach, stabbing her again in the hip, he said.

Later that evening, he said he saw Mrs. Virginia Slingwein, 4525 Chouteau avenue, waiting for a bus at Mackinac and Eichelberger avenues. He stabbed her and grabbed her purse, he said. He took a coin purse containing $5 from it and left the purse in an automobile in a nearby garage.

He was held for juvenile authorities. Neither of the women was seriously injured.

CHIMPS AT ZOO USING HOSE TO COOL OFF VISITORS

Some high-spirited, if not public-spirited, chimpanzees at the Zoo's ape house are having a gay old time these days cooling off spectators by squirting them with a water hose.

During the current spell of hot weather, the hose is left running in the chimps' cage to wash it down. The chimps, in their nimble and inventive way, are spreading the water to all within a 10-yard range.

They are determined to be sole guardians of the hose, however. Yesterday, some small boys managed to seize the business end of the hose as it poked between the bars. In the ensuing tug-of-war, three chimps out-pulled four boys. Everybody got soaked.

TWO ARE FINED AS DRUNKEN DRIVERS, LICENSES TAKEN

Two St. Louisans were fined and their drivers' licenses were suspended for 90 days in police court today on charges of driving when intoxicated.

Police Judge Robert G. Dowd fined James Maloney, taxicab driver, of 4371 Laclede avenue, $75. Maloney pleaded guilty. Police arrested him Aug. 2 after his automobile was in a collision at the Lindell boulevard cut-off near Olive street.

Police Judge Morris Rosenhal fined Charles Webb Jr., 1215 Chambers street, $75 for driving when intoxicated and $25 for resisting arrest. Police testified they stopped Webb after seeing his automobile weaving at Fourteenth and North Market streets. They said he was abusive and refused to show his driver's license. Webb, 20 years old, did not testify.

GIRL, 3, IS BITTEN BY RATS

Kathy Patton, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Patton, 1529 North Market street, was bitten on the fingers and toes yesterday by rats, police reported.

WILD MARIJUANA PATCHES BURNED IN AIRPORT AREA

Several patches of marijuana, discovered near Lambert-St. Louis Field by county police, were burned yesterday by airport employees with a weed burner which is used in winters to melt ice off runways.

Patrolman Herman C. Birmes and King Chamblin found the narcotic weed last week and reported their find to agents of the Federal Narcotics Bureau, who confirmed their suspicion that it was marijuana.

The patches, some on airport property, were north of Natural Bridge road and east of Brown road along a drainage ditch. Agents said it was apparently growing wild, because the patches were irregular in shape and size.

Some of the plants were almost six feet high, agents said, and were ready for harvest. This has been a good growing year for marijuana, they added.

BOY RECOVERING AFTER HIS MOTHER SAVES HIM IN LAKE

Six-year-old Loren Seger Jr. was recuperating today at his home, 115 St. Madeleine lane, Florissant, after being rescued by his mother from Willow Woods lake, a small body of water near St. Charles.

Mrs. Seger, swimming in the lake with her husband and their two children Saturday, took her eyes off Loren Jr. for a moment to check on Sharon Ann, 10, who was swimming a short distance from shore with her father.

When Mrs. Seger looked back for Loren Jr., he had disappeared. She found him in water nearly four feet deep. Her husband and a lifeguard aided her efforts to apply artificial respiration. They succeeded in restoring his breathing despite the fact he had been under water about two minutes.

Later at home Loren Jr. was ill, but by today had become his usual happy self, Mrs. Seger said.

G.O.P. CHAIRMAN CRITICIZES POLICE PAY-OFF INQUIRY

Compton Questions Its Thoroughness, Points to Vigorous Investigation of Mosley.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Aug. 3—Failure of the Democratic state administration to initiate a "thorough investigation" of reports that some members of the St. Louis Police Department were "paid off" by the operator of a brothel was strongly criticized here last night by Perry Compton, Montgomery City, chairman of the Republican State Committee.

"If a good investigation were made, fraud galore would be uncovered," Compton asserted in a speech at a meeting of Republican leaders in the Tenth Congressional District.

Activity in Sheriff's Case.

"When Sheriff Arthur C. Mosley of St. Louis county (a Republican) was criticized for alleged laxity in law enforcement in the county two years ago," Compton said, "Gov. Phil M. Donnelly, urged on by Missouri's Democratic United States Senators, Thomas C. Hennings and Stuart Symington, lost no time in ordering an investigation by the attorney general's office."

"However, I have seen no indication of any intention on the part of the Governor, or our United States Senators, to get the attorney general to investigate the St. Louis Police Department."

The alleged pay-offs to police officers referred to by Compton were reported by Miss Pauline Cloin, a former employee at June's Bath and Massage Parlor, 308A North Theresa avenue, following the death of its operator, Mrs. June Alma Lytz.

Divisive Effort Charged.

Compton accused Hennings and Symington of attempting to "pull the wool over the voters' eyes" by constant attacks on operation of the agricultural stabilization program in Missouri, in an effort to divert the attention of the voters from "the miserable mess in St. Louis."

Answering Compton's criticism, John J. Dwyer, chairman of the St. Louis Democratic City Committee, said today:

"I believe the people of St. Louis will have more faith in the facts produced by the grand jury and police department's investigations than in the theories produced by a political factionalist, who lives in Montgomery City."

"There is a new and confident spirit of progress in St. Louis. It is too bad the same can't be said for Mr. Compton's section of the Republican party, a group that spends most of its time confusing progress with patronage."

U.S. Scientist Predicts Man Will Reach Moon by Century's End

Frederick C. Durant Tells Copenhagen Conference of New Frontiers to Conquer.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 3 (AP)—American scientist Frederick C. Durant predicted today that man will land on the moon by the end of the present century.

Durant, of Lexington, Mass., made the statement at the official opening of the sixth International Astronautical Congress here.

Referring to the recent White House announcement that the United States will launch an unmanned earth satellite in 1957-58, Durant, president of the International Astronautical Federation, said:

"The next step will be an unmanned satellite which will not return to the earth. This will be followed by trips around the moon. I personally believe all these achievements, including landings on the moon, will be accomplished by the end of this century."

Two Russians on Hand.

Delegates from 18 nations heard Durant's short address. Two Soviet scientists were on hand as observers.

"The frontiers of exploration have virtually disappeared on earth," Durant said. "The new frontiers are out in another dimension."

The congress decided earlier to hold its next meeting in Rome, some time in September, 1956.

The congress also heard a message from President Eisenhower thanking it for offers to aid in the American satellite project.

Fred A. Hitchcock, of the Ohio State University laboratory of aviation physiology, said in a paper prepared for the congress that intensive experiments show there are no insurmountable medical obstacles to sustained space flights.

"While there are many physiological problems in relation to space flights still to be solved," Hitchcock's paper said, "nevertheless, in the light of current investigation, none of these seems to be insurmountable."

Hitchcock said that for medical purposes space flights begin above 63,000 feet and pointed out that some test pilots have already reached 93,000 feet for a few seconds in rocket-propelled craft.

He added, however, that "cruising at such extreme altitudes is not yet possible."

Problems to Be Solved.

Hitchcock said scientists still have to solve the problem of designing a space ship permitting crews to travel without oxygen masks that will withstand the tremendous heat in passing through the earth's outer atmosphere and will permit life to continue in the vacuum of gravity-free space.

"In order to make life possible in a space ship it would be absolutely necessary to shield it from the excessive amount of ultraviolet light present outside the earth's atmosphere," he said.

"In view of the fact, however, that most glass and plastics absorb ultraviolet light, such shielding would probably be easily accomplished. The matter of shielding from cosmic rays is much more difficult if not impossible. Experiments are currently under way to determine the effects of cosmic rays on animals. These experiments consist of exposing small animals to regions in the upper atmosphere where cosmic radiation is at a maximum. When results of such experiments are available we will be better able to evaluate the hazards of cosmic radiation...."

"The matter of ozone and other toxic substances such as atomic clouds through which the ship might pass is of no serious importance since the cabin would be sealed and provided with an artificial atmosphere and would therefore be impenetrable to any gas substances through which the flight might pass."

Trip to Moon Not Far Off, Moscow Radio Says.

LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Soviet scientists feel "man's dream of a flight to the moon... will come true some day, and from the looks of it the day is not far off," Moscow radio said last night.

The Russian people were told, too, of American plans to launch satellites in space.

Giving a report on research by a special committee on interplanetary travel set up by the U.S.S.R. Academy of Science, the Moscow broadcast said: "Not long ago, astronomers, engineers and designers met in Kharkov to discuss questions pertaining to the study of the moon and planets to which spacecrafts could be sent."

"The moon, which has been well studied by astronomers, came in for a good deal of discussion."

"For practical purposes, the moon has no atmosphere. That is why its surface is constantly bombed by meteors...."

"In the thousands of millions of years that the moon has been in existence, these meteoric bombardments have obviously turned her surface into a finely pulverized dust...."

"The question now arises: What is the depth of the layer of dust on the moon? Would the rockets that landed there be in danger of sinking in the dust and would not this dust layer interfere with TV signals from a rocket back to earth?"

"This will have to be ascertained by astronomers before the first cosmic ship takes off for the moon. And it will have to be ascertained soon. The answer will have to be divined in a few years at the most."

SEVEN FIREMEN HURT IN THREE SEPARATE BLAZES

Four Injured at Burning Warehouse in Which Damage Is Put at More Than $200,000.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

Seven firemen were injured yesterday at three separate fires. Four firemen were hurt while fighting a blaze that caused damage estimated at more than $200,000 at the National Cover & Manufacturing Co. warehouse, Pennsylvania avenue and West Kraus street.

Ransom Ford, 5615 Pernod avenue, attached to Engine Co. 23, was treated at City Hospital for smoke inhalation. Cuts from shattered glass were suffered by Henry Berne, 3915 Burgen avenue, and Edwin Flori, 4025 Burgen, both of Engine Co. 34, and by Paul Felio, 3839 Connecticut street, attached to Engine Co. 19.

Three alarms were sounded after the fire broke out at 2:30 p.m. in the warehouse, in which paper, cardboard and plastic products were stored.

The third alarm was turned in because many firemen already at the scene were becoming exhausted in the oppressive heat. None of the equipment which answered the third alarm was used, but the 24 additional firemen who arrived were put to work as replacements.

The one-story cement block warehouse adjoins the firm's office at 6727 South Broadway, Broadway streetcars were delayed about 40 minutes. However, the Public Service Co. put two buses into service on a temporary basis.

Emmett Duebelbeis, president of the National Cover firm, said the loss, which was almost entirely to stock, was insured. Cause of the fire was not determined.

Fire Capt. William Haas of Engine Co. No. 29 fell on a board that had nails protruding from it while he was at a fire last night at 4238 Park avenue, where an old sawdust company plant, which was being razed, burned. Haas, who lives at 6292 Farmaduke avenue, was treated for puncture wounds of the right hand.

Two firemen—Vincent Baumgardner, 1609 Carroll street, Engine Co. 18, and Harold Kendall, 6901 Dale avenue, Hook and Ladder Co. 5—were cut by glass in a fire at the Schnetzer Moving and Storage Co., 1478 South Vandeventer avenue.

Battalion Chief Robert Quinlan discovered the fire in the moving firm while he was directing activities at the sawdust plant blaze, about a block away. He sent an engine and several firemen to the second blaze until another fire company arrived.

Damage to the Schnetzer firm was estimated at $1000 to the contents and $300 to the building.

CITY WORKHOUSE MORALE BETTER, WARDEN ASSERTS

Baynes Cites Improve- ment in Living Condi- tions and Recrea- tional Facilities.

Living conditions and recreational facilities have improved at the City Workhouse in the last three months, Warden Harold E. Baynes reported today as he began his fourth month in office.

"We have made no tremendous strides toward our ultimate goals because we haven't had the money," he told the Post-Dispatch, "but we have accomplished many small things that have helped the morale of inmates."

Some of the money has come from profits of an expanded commissary and some has come from Workhouse appropriations, Baynes said. Commissary profits have gone toward purchase of new sheets for all inmates, a luxury they formerly did not enjoy.

"We want to instill the idea of personal cleanliness in all inmates," he said. Having sheets helps a great deal. Now I have ordered towels issued to each man. We have covered the old dining room tables with masonite, which improves sanitation."

Play Area Expanded.

The Workhouse staff is working on a group type of athletic program for as many inmates as possible. The recreational area, which is about 60 by 50 yards, has been expanded by removal of a decorative fountain and has been resurfaced with blacktop.

Baynes, former superintendent of the Philadelphia House of Correction, listened when inmates suggested that an inner wall be used as a handball court. Using commissary profits, he has paid for covering the wall and purchase of equipment.

The number of volleyball courts has been increased from one to four. The two-acre garden, where hay formerly was grown, has so far this year produced 520 pounds of squash, 330 pounds of tomatoes and 75 pounds of string beans. All of it has found its way to the messhall tables Baynes said.

A central radio system will be installed next week, doing away with the present system of permitting inmates to bring small radios into their cells.

A classification committee has found jobs for about 200 of the 450 inmates. Visiting procedures have been standardized, with preference being given to the inmates' immediate families. Feeding schedules have been improved.

Personal Talks Helpful.

Small problems like these become big problems when you're locked up," said Baynes, who has found that talking over things on an individual basis with inmates also helps morale tremendously.

Baynes, who became warden last May 2 after the previous warden, Clarence Weismantel, resigned under fire, had to quell a brief riot about a month later. He laid the trouble to a small group of inmates who previously had received special privileges.

St. Louisans voted at a special election in May to spend $3,000,000 for a new Workhouse to replace the present 100-year-old institution. However, the project does not have top priority and a start on the new Workhouse is not expected for some time.

BULGARIA ADMITS FIGHTERS SHOT AIRLINER DOWN

80 miles off its course over neighboring Yugoslavia.

An air defense command post received news that an unidentified foreign aircraft had entered Bulgarian air space. The command post ordered two fighters to pursue the aircraft and "compel it to ground on any one of our airfields."

The Bulgarian fighters warned the plane "through the established international signals" to follow them to an airfield, but the Israeli plane did not reply.

"The fighters, seeing that the offending aircraft intended to make off, opened fire against it as a result of which it caught fire and crashed in the neighborhood of Petrich."

An explosion followed, demolishing the aircraft, and all 58 aboard perished, the statement said.

The announcement again expressed the profound regret of the Bulgarian government and people for the disaster and the "death of innocent people" and said the Red regime ardently hopes such a disaster will not recur.

INDICTED IN STEPSON'S DEATH

An indictment charging Richard Lloyd, 4030 Enright avenue, with murder in the death of his 4-year-old stepson, David Newton, was voted yesterday by the Circuit Court grand jury.

Lloyd, a Negro, admitted in a signed statement to police that he beat the boy, burned him with matches and held his head under water last week.

Congress Quits; Votes Polio Funds

utes in the 1956 election year session.

Congress took no action on several recommendations the President is expected to renew next year.

These include proposals for liberalizing the refugee admission act, increasing postal rates, lowering the voting age to 18, loans for low-income farmers, federal reinsurance of health programs, pay increases for top government executives and revision of the Taft-Hartley labor relations act.

Tax Cuts and Farm Prices.

Looming on the horizon for 1956 when the Democrats still will control both houses (barring changes caused by deaths) are expected new proposals to cut taxes and a showdown fight over Democratic-supported efforts to restore rigid farm price supports.

Many members agreed that highway and school construction bills will be prime issues before the next session. Several said, however, they see no reason for any special session to consider such bills.

Senator John J. Sparkman (Dem.), Alabama, said the road program could wait until January because the increased construction called for in a bill passed by the Senate but rejected by the House would not begin for several months in any event.

Senator Gordon Allott (Rep.), Colorado, said the school construction issue will require extended hearings, but he saw no necessity of calling Congress back this fall to consider it.

Many Members Go Abroad.

Senator George Aiken (Rep.), Vermont, said that if a special session were called a lot of members would have to come trooping back from odd corners of the world.

"If what I read is correct, half of the members of Congress will be out of the country till Christmas," he said.

Senator Joseph O'Mahoney (Dem.), Wyoming, complained in a statement yesterday that Congress can't finish its work well "when so many members are in a rush to go to Russia, to Europe, to Asia and sometimes home."

He proposed that Congress recess annually by mid-July and resume meeting on the second Monday of September.

When adjournment finally came, many Senate and House members already had left the capital for home or on trips planned in the expectation Congress would quit Saturday as originally planned.

Few others were expected to stay long in Washington's heat—it reached a steamy 98 yesterday—although a few committee hearings were planned for the next few days.

Closing Hijinks.

In the final hours there were the usual hush and the customary compliments.

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (Dem.), Texas, told his colleagues: "I think you have been the hardest working Congress that it's ever been my privilege to serve." He wished House members "a happy holiday" and said he hopes they find the people back home "in good humor with you."

Senators, less boisterous, passed around compliments. Then in a chamber from which nearly all his colleagues had departed, Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.), Oregon, spoke on into the night. Morse said he had come armed with the texts of "more speeches" he could have delivered. He ordered their texts published in the Congressional Record, delivered one saying Mr. Eisenhower should call Congress back into session "to act on schools."

There were some few differences of opinion over the record the two houses compiled in a session that began Jan. 5.

Praise for Congress.

Senator Earle Clements of Kentucky, acting Democratic leader, told the Senate:

"I do not desire to quote the President, but I do not hesitate to say to the Senate that though he may have been disappointed along the line . . . at some shortcomings, in his estimation, on the part of the Congress, yet I am of the opinion that he thinks that the Congress did a very creditable job during the first session. . . ."

Clements read a statement by Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the majority leader who suffered a heart attack a month ago, saying "everyone of us can be proud of the record of this Congress."

Senator William F. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, said the Senate had faced important foreign policy matters "as Americans, not as partisans." He said he had talked to Mr. Eisenhower and that the President "sent his regards to each member."

One of the major accomplishments on the last day of the session was a compromise of Senate and House proposals so the Congress authorized the federal spending of $30,000,000 to help the states provide free Salk polio vaccine for needy children.

The vaccine program would run until next Feb. 15 and would allow free shots for 20,000,000 children under 20 and expectant mothers.

Funds would be distributed to the states on the basis of their per capita incomes. Each state would have wide latitude in deciding who would receive free shots, but "means tests" for this purpose would not be allowed.

The bill gives the United States Surgeon General authority to decide which age groups would have priority in receiving the vaccine.

A debate and by voice votes, both branches acted to extend for two years the life of the Small Business Administration. The bill increases the limit on loans to individual firms from $150,000 to $250,000. The total revolving fund, available for small business loans carrying not more than 6 per cent interest, was boosted from $150,000,000 to $175,000,000.

A compromise bill to extend the Defense Production act for one year was worked out in less than an hour by Senate-House conferees. The measure then quickly cleared both branches by voice votes.

Curb On $1-a-Year Men.

The bill would require business executives filling temporary, payless federal jobs to make periodic public reports on their private financial interests.

They would list for publication in the Federal Register the names of all corporations in which they own, or had owned within the previous 60 days, any stocks or bonds. They also would report any other financial interests in corporations or partnerships. Any changes would be reported at six-month intervals.

Congress quickly passed a compromise legislative appropriation bill that had been bogged down for several days by a squabble over pay raises for congressional employees.

In addition to pay increases, the bill provides for a 50 per cent boost in the stationery and postage allowances for Senators and for a $5000 increase in the clerical allowance for each house member.

Senate provisions permit one top salary of $14,800 for each committee staff, a second of $14,300 and four of $13,617. The House salary schedule contains a $14,800 ceiling for an unlimited number of committee staff members. Other pay boosts were voted for non-elective House employees and various department heads.

The bill provides $92,000,000 for Congress's operations during the current fiscal year.

Mrs. Smith Objects.

Senator Margaret Chase Smith (Rep.), Maine, said heatedly it was "disgraceful" that the Senate pays $14,800 to its veteran parliamentarian, Charles L. Watkins, while his House opposite number Lewis Deschler, gets $20,500.

Morse agreed with her and said the Senate should move to correct this situation, retroactively, as soon as it returns in January.

But Acting Majority Leader Clements, who was in the thick of this fight because he also piloted the legislative money bill, told his colleagues he followed long-standing custom in the matter.

That custom dictates, he said, that each branch has a free rein in its employee pay scales and indeed in all housekeeping functions.

Clements freely concluded there are many other discrepancies in the salaries paid by the two bodies.

A compromise bill aimed at ending Washington's 34-day bus and streetcar strike cleared both branches. It would enable the District of Columbia commissioners to arrange for transit service in the next 12 months by the struck Capital Transit Co. or some other firm. The district would make up any financial losses during this period.

At the end of the 12 months, the district government could revoke the franchise of Capital Transit, which is controlled by financier Louis E. Wolfson.

Meanwhile, the district could prescribe strike settlement terms. AFL bus and streetcar workers walked out July 1 in a dispute over wage and other benefits.

New personalities developed public attention and some faded perceptibly in the seven months. Senator Walter F. George moved into a commanding position as Democratic spokesman on foreign affairs, often overshadowing his Republican colleagues. Senator Lyndon Johnson, until stricken, broke records for keeping the Senate working smoothly and for uniting his party members on critical votes. So did Speaker Rayknowland blew cold on some Eisenhower Administration foreign policies, but seemed warming up toward them again as the session ended.

EAST GERMAN RED LEADER ULBRICHT REPORTED ILL

BERLIN, Aug. 3 (AP)—Walter Ulbricht, East German Communist party chief, was reported seriously ill today.

The Frankfurt Rundschau said Ulbricht, 62 years old, had been stricken with a gall bladder and liver ailment. An eastern satellite source also reported that he is ill.

There were rumors, however, that Ulbricht's reported ill health might have political overtones. He has not made an announced public appearance in almost a month and the East German government has declined to make any statement on his whereabouts.

Speculation in both East and West German political quarters was that a campaign might be under way to make the East German regime more palatable to the West German republic in view of the Geneva conference atmosphere. Such a campaign might require East Germany to dump some leaders the West Germans oppose. Some observers believe Ulbricht, secretary of the Communist party in East Germany and deputy prime minister, would top such a list.

TWO WOMEN IN FINANCE COMPANY ROBBED OF $200

Two women employees of Beneficial Finance Co., 3140 South Grand boulevard, were robbed of about $200 today by a man who entered the place and ordered them to give him the money.

Mrs. William Eslick, cashier, said the man first asked about a loan. Then, she said, he held up a paper bag with one hand inside it, as if he was grasping a hidden pistol, and told her and Miss Dorothy Loesch, company secretary, to empty the cash drawers.

The robber took the money and ordered the two women and a woman customer, who were the only persons in the place at the time, to go in a washroom while he made his departure.

Beneficial Finance Co. is a small company that specializes in financing the purchase of automobiles and other personal property.

The robbery took place at about 10:30 a.m. The women employees were on duty at the time. The woman customer was a regular client.

The police are looking for a man who is about 30 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, 150 pounds, with dark hair and eyes. He was wearing a light-colored shirt and dark trousers.

Russian Farm Experts Visiting 500,000-Bushel Grain Elevator

They Will Also Tour 2400-Acre Ranch in South Dakota—Delegates Travel 250 Miles in a Day.

ABERDEEN, S.D., Aug. 3 (AP)—Eleven members of the visiting delegation of Soviet agricultural officials set out this morning to look at South Dakota's largest single grain storage unit.

The co-operatively owned South Dakota Wheat Growers Association terminal elevator at Aberdeen has a capacity of more than 500,000 bushels. In the afternoon the guests were scheduled to visit the 2400-acre Lincoln ranch, owned by Frank McHugh.

The Russian leader, Vladimir Matskevich, was in Washington to work out arrangements for a Canadian tour. The other Russians got their first extensive look at American wheat growing yesterday. Their tour of South Dakota carried them over nearly 250 miles of the state.

They saw the Corn Palace at Mitchell, had lunch at Redfield and then saw two wheat farms near Redfield and a third farm near Mellette before arriving hot and weary at their hotel in Aberdeen late in the evening.

The Russians are considering making a side trip to the large Keeline ranch at Gillette, Wyo. An invitation was received from the president of the company which owns the ranch. Presumably only three of the Soviet delegates would go if they decide to accept the proposal.

Under consideration also is a trip to Mexico after the journey in the United States is over and presumably also after the Russians' scheduled trip to Canada. What the Russians would expect to gain from such a journey in terms of their professed interests in advanced techniques of growing corn in northern climes is by no means clear.

WRITES OF SOVIET HOSPITALITY SHOW

Ralph Olsen of Ellsworth, Ia., one of the American farmers touring Russia, wrote the following dispatch for United Press. "Getting material out of here by phone and cable is so darned tough I thought I'd try an airmail letter," he said. The dispatch helps explain why the American travelers finally rebelled against the overwhelming show of hospitality they encountered in Russia.

By RALPH OLSEN
Written for United Press

DNEPROPETROVSKY, U. S. S. R., July 27 (Via Airmail)—The agricultural delegation to the U. S. S. R. from the U. S. A. has been in Ukraine nearly five days. Each collective farm, research institute or manufacturing plant we visit tries to outdo the ones visited before in extending hospitality. As an example, here is what happened when we visited the Ukrainian Research Institute of Animal Husbandry and its experimental farm "Ukrainka." The institute carries on work of a typical midwest experiment station, and the 15,000-acre farm feeds the animals as well as the 470 people working there. Each member of our group was given a huge spray of flowers by the smaller girls of the farm village.

The whole population of the place seemed to be in the street with the exception of the ones needed to carry on the work to be shown for our benefit. And someone had to be preparing the terrific dinner we were served about 2:30 p.m.

Dinner Menu.

Here is the menu. Caviar from sturgeon and salmon, two kinds of sardines and three other kinds of fish, cold roast beef, chicken, cheese, tomatoes, cucumbers, hard-boiled eggs, onions, two kinds of bread, butter (fresh churned on the farm). This was the first course.

Then they brought a sort of pastry with ground beef cooked in the center of it. Also a clear hot soup.

Third course was a broiled beef file and small buttered potatoes. Fourth course consisted of ice cream and a fancy three-layer burnt sugar cake. I guess it was with elaborate icing between layers and on top.

The dinner was followed with champagne. Naturally there was plenty of the well known vodka and some Russian wine and fruit drinks. There were then some speeches and toasts by the manager of the institute and other officials. Members of the American delegation responded with toasts, speeches and songs, including, as one might suppose, the Iowa Corn song.

Crowd in Streets.

After dinner we went back to the Hotel Intourist to pick up our baggage and start by automobile for Dnepropetrovsk. The crowd in the street made it almost impossible to get moving. The windows of the cars were open so we could talk to the people (via translators) and they pushed up so close to get their heads inside it looked like someone would surely get hurt.

On arrival here another mass of people were in the streets approaching our hotel and the square on two sides of the building. To get us from our cars to the hotel door the police had to form a lane and even then the pressure from the people back in the crowd forced the near ones right against us.

No one was hurt and we got to the second floor to a corner room facing two streets. The windows were open and we could look down on the faces of what must have been several thousand people.

They applauded the short talks made by the tired delegates. We were told some of them had been waiting seven hours to see us and it was then nearly midnight.

This was one day of our 33-day tour of the U. S. S. R., and it was not much different from the day before.

DR. IVY SUES DR. STODDARD OVER BOOK ON CANCER WORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—A former vice president of the University of Illinois, Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, filed a $360,000 libel suit in Supreme Court yesterday against Dr. George D. Stoddard, an associate of the New York University office of institutional research and educational planning and a former president of the University of Illinois.

Dr. Ivy based his suit on statements he said were contained in Dr. Stoddard's book, "Kreblozen—the Great Cancer Mystery." Dr. Ivy, who is a physician, is head of the department of clinical science at the University of Illinois.

He said that Dr. Stoddard's writings meant that he, Dr. Ivy, "was unworthy of his trust as a member of the medical profession . . . was a glib, venal, dishonest, conspiring and vicious person . . . He is asking $250,000 punitive damages and $110,000 compensatory damages."

COFFEE LOSS IN BRAZIL'S STATE PUT AT 70 PER CENT

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 3 (UPI)—The governor of Parana state, the second largest coffee-growing state in Brazil, said today that 70 per cent of the coffee bushes in his district were destroyed or damaged by the current frost.

Gov. Adolfo de Oliveira Franco, after making a plane survey of Parana's coffee lands, said the federal government should immediately free the exchange rate for coffee to relieve the "desperate situation."

The cold wave of the last few days has sent the mercury below freezing in five states. It has destroyed many crops and brought snow to several regions where snow never before had been seen. Franco said the damage in his state was worse than in 1953.

KEFAUVER SAYS

ethics by continuing his connections with a New York firm. But, Kefauver said, the President apparently saw nothing improper or wrong in Wenzell's dual role.

"Do you, Mr. Dixon, stand on the testimony you and Mr. James gave yesterday that Mr. Wenzell—a vice president and director of the First Boston Corp.—a man whose report was read by President Eisenhower and former President Hoover—was nothing but a 'messenger boy' or a 'courier'?" Kefauver asked.

"I should like to stand very firmly on all the testimony I have given before this subcommittee," Dixon said.

But he added that he wanted to stand on the testimony as a whole and not in "isolated pieces."

The subcommittee voted yesterday to send Dixon's testimony to the Justice Department for possible perjury action.

EISENHOWER GOT
WENZELL REPORTBy RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Former Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge showed a long-secret report on the Tennessee Valley Authority to both President Eisenhower and former President Hoover, Dodge testified yesterday.

At the same time, he contended that the report's author, Adolphe H. Wenzell, was so unimportant in Dixon-Yates talks that the Budget Bureau did right in eliminating his name from a public chronology of principal events in the development of the power contract.

Dodge did not deny there was some similarity between one of Wenzell's recommendations and the eventual Dixon-Yates scheme to feed private power into the TVA.

Not a Factor, He Says.

Dodge maintained, however, he had asked Wenzell for facts, not recommendations, and the Wenzell report was not considered in deciding on the policy that led to the Dixon-Yates deal.

Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, told Dodge there were "glaring factual errors" in the Wenzell report and suggested it should have been checked with TVA.

"We weren't using the facts except for information," Dodge said, stirring a burst of laughter among members of the audience at the hearing of the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee.

Both Mr. Eisenhower and Hoover saw the report shortly after it was submitted in September 1953 by Wenzell, a vice president of First Boston Corp., then engaged also as a part-time Budget Bureau consultant on TVA. First Boston later emerged as agent for Dixon-Yates in arranging $120,000,000 in financing for the syndicate's projected steam plant at West Memphis, Ark.

Dodge said he did not know whether President Eisenhower had read the report or not. He sent it back without comment, Dodge testified.

Letter to Wenzell.

In a letter dated Oct. 19, 1953, Dodge thanked Wenzell for his "extremely valuable contribution" and said the report had been "examined by two important individuals, whose reaction to it equaled my own," the witness went on.

This was a reference to President Eisenhower and former President Hoover, Dodge said.

"I was just flattering Mr. Wenzell," he explained.

Dodge said he "just took it for granted" the President considered it a good report. Hoover called it a good report next time they met, Dodge added.

Dodge's letter to Wenzell said the report was valuable "not only for the material contained in it but as a foundation for further studies in the same area."

"It was the polite thing to say," Dodge observed.

Kefauver asked Dodge whether Wenzell had asked for permission to show the report to George D. Woods, chairman of the board of First Boston. Both men had told the subcommittee earlier that Wenzell had shown his copy to Woods.

"He did not," Dodge replied.

"I told Mr. Wenzell that if he kept a copy of the report he wasn't to show it to anyone. I don't like it. That was a Government report. It was a confidential bureau document, and I didn't think he (Woods) should see it."

Minimizing Wenzell's importance in the early Dixon-Yates talks, Dodge said: "His position has been blown up to more importance than it had."

Two Masters, Kefauver Says.

Kefauver has accused Wenzell of "serving two masters" and of actions bordering on violation of the criminal code.

Dodge said he advised Wenzell in March 1954 to leave the Budget Bureau "as quickly as possible" if there was any likelihood that First Boston would be involved in financing of the Dixon-Yates project.

Earlier testimony has shown that Wenzell's dual role was a subject of growing concern also to other First Boston officials; to Edgar H. Dixon, major partner in the syndicate, and to Rowland Hughes, Dodge's successor as Budget Director. Wenzell resigned the week before Dixon-Yates submitted its final firm contract proposal, April 10, 1954. Dodge left the Budget Bureau four days later.

Dodge said he added Wenzell temporarily to the Budget Bureau staff in 1953 after a meeting with Woods, to make a "commercial-financial analysis of the TVA." Later, in early 1954, Wenzell again was engaged by the Budget Bureau to advise on interest rates and comparative costs.

Kefauver reported that SEC Chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong had written a letter objecting to the Senator's "inferences" that Adams had "coached" Armstrong in preparation for his testimony before the subcommittee last month.

YUGOSLAV REDS RESUMING SOVIET PARTY TIES: TITO

But He Rules Out Any
sians—Belgrade Chief
Meets Protestants.

BELGRADE, Aug. 3 (AP)—President Josip (Tito) Broz has told a group of Americans the Yugoslav Communist party is entering into relations with the Communist party of the Soviet Union.

Tito's interview with members of a United States Protestant seminar headed by Dr. Sherwood Eddy was published today. In it Tito said that while he was resuming interparty relations with Moscow, it would be without any subordination by the Yugoslav Communists to the Russians. The relations, he said, would be like those of the Yugoslav party in maintaining with Western Socialists.

This appeared to be the Yugoslav reply to an editorial published by the official Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda two weeks ago, beginning the Yugoslav Communists to participate in the common struggle of all the world's Communists. Borba, newspaper of the Yugoslav party, published the editorial recently without comment.

Tito Convinced.

Observers here believe Tito is convinced the Russians have dropped their plans for world domination, and this was the reason the Yugoslav president agreed to enter into political as well as economic relations with Moscow, from which Yugoslavia had been cut off since 1948 by Tito's expulsion from the Cominform.

The Tito interview was prominently displayed in the Yugoslav press, though it was published seven days after it was given by Tito to the touring Protestant group.

Tito told the group he believed the leaders of the Soviet Union have come to the conclusion the pattern of a single world system cannot be imposed. He stressed that in the direct contact he had with Soviet leaders who came to Belgrade on a mission of apology two months ago, he became "deeply persuaded that the Soviets do not represent a danger for the West and that Russia had enough of her own problems to keep her from entering an outside conflict."

Tito added he believed Western statesmen at the Geneva summit conference recently got the same impression from direct contacts with the Soviet leaders.

The Yugoslav chief said he was of the opinion the Soviet change in relations with Belgrade would mean a change in Moscow's attitude toward other countries. He indicated the Communist satellite nations of Eastern Europe would get more freedom to run their domestic affairs.

Continued Friendship.

Earlier, the Belgrade radio quoted Tito as saying Yugoslav friendship and co-operation with the United States would continue regardless of whether his country received further American aid.

"Our people believe in the understanding of the American people and we have fully grasped the significance of the assistance which the people of America have extended to us. Our people are grateful for this aid which they received in their hours of difficulty."

"In any case, we do not mean to change our policy nor our attitude toward America, nor toward the other western countries, regardless of whether we should or should not receive assistance from America and those other countries."

"I say this because there is certain propaganda afoot to the effect that, with the normalization of relations with the eastern countries, Yugoslavia is allegedly preparing to change her policy toward America and other western countries."

M'DONNELL MAKING 2 NEW JET FIGHTERS

One Is Missile-Carrying Version of Demon—Other Is Secret.

Development of two new jet fighter planes for the Navy was disclosed today in the annual report of McDonnell Aircraft Corp. One of the new Navy planes, the report said, is a missile-carrying version of the Demon, designated the F3H-2M, on which deliveries are expected to start in the near future.

The other, for which the company has a development contract, is the F4H-1. Work has started on this plane but details concerning its size and utility are classified.

The company also has a contract for a photo-reconnaissance version of the Voodoo fighter, RF-101A. This plane, first model of which has been flown at the plant at Lambert-St. Louis Field, is powered by two turbojet engines with afterburners. It is a supersonic, long-range craft capable of carrying atomic weapons and perform combat and reconnaissance missions. It was previously announced that the firm is building an interceptor version of the Air Force Voodoo for the Air Defense Command.

Record sales of $154,588,816 were reported for the fiscal year ended June 30, an increase of $31,497,125 over the previous year. Net earnings increased $934,378 over the previous year of $4,555,795 and amounted to $6.33 per common share after taxes.

There was a backlog of $305,438,023 in government contracts as of June 30, the report said. This compares with a backlog of $441,371,888 the previous year. It was added, however, that within the next four months an increase in the backlog is expected, based on government plans for new contracts using 1956 appropriations.

Employment during the year increased from 12,318 to 13,786. The payroll increased from $60,094,177 to $64,693,601.

REFUSES TO ISSUE WARRANT AGAINST CARR'S STEPFATHER

Issuance of a warrant charging alteration of narcotics prescriptions against Carl Reed, stepfather of Bobby Carr, murdered St. Louis taxicab driver, was refused yesterday by Assistant Circuit Attorney Richard B. Dempsey.

Dempsey said he did not believe the alleged offense was such as was contemplated in the state statute. He added that search of court decisions failed to disclose any record of a person ever having been charged under the statute for actions such as admitted by Reed.

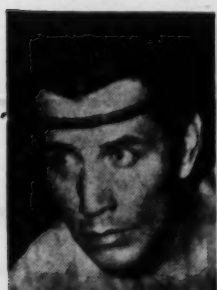

At the time of his arrest by St. Louis police and federal narcotics agents July 29, Reed admitted having changed the number of tablets specified in a doctor's prescription for a morphine derivative for his wife, who is ill, from 20 to 30. The Reeds live at 3909 Westminster place.

FIVE EMINENT SENATORS OF PAST TO BE HONORED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—The Senate decided yesterday to create a sort of hall of fame for illustrious Senators of the past. By unanimous vote, the Legislators decided to fill five niches in an elaborate gilt reception room just off the Senate chamber with medallions of five distinguished former Senators.

Acting Democratic Leader Clements of Kentucky and Republican Leader Knowland of California put through the surprise move. They credited the idea to Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, recovering from a heart attack in nearby Bethesda (Md.) naval hospital.

A temporary committee of five Senators will be appointed to work out the program which calls for selection of one deceased Senator, during each two-year session of Congress, over the next 10 years. Clements said the five would be "all-time, all-American members of the Senate."

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL GROWTH IS SHOWN BY EARLY RECORDS

Almost three times as many patients were treated last year at St. Luke's Hospital as during the first 15 years of the institution's existence, a study of old records being moved to quarters in the new wing for microfilming showed yesterday.

Total number of adult patients treated last year at the hospital, 5535 Delmar boulevard, was 6689 as compared with 2555 in the first 15 years of operations. First patient admitted was B. Burton, who suffered "spinalus," on Feb. 28, 1866, and the second was not received until April 14 of that year.

Names of all patients treated in the first 15 years were entered in a ledger 16 by 14 inches, containing 196 pages. Frequent ailments included fractures, gunshot wounds and consumption, and occasionally patients were admitted for "intemperance."

CONWAY IN OHIO ART EXHIBIT

U.S. to Try to Create Artificial Moonlight 60 Miles Up in Sky

Experiment With Sodium Vapor Likely Next Month in West — Will Aid Satellite Program.

LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP)—A British scientist said today American scientists will try to create "artificial moonlight" 60 miles above the earth during experiments in New Mexico, probably next month.

Prof. D. R. Bates made the statement in disclosing that British scientists are considering the same experiment, which involves release of sodium vapor from high altitude rockets.

Bates is a member of the Department of Mathematical Physics at Queen's University, Belfast, who will lead one of five university groups taking part in British rocket research programs. He worked for six months in 1950 at the California Institute of Technology.

Bates said the American experiment probably will be tried by the Americans on Sept. 6 or 7 in New Mexico.

(The United Press reported confirmation of the plan was given in Washington by Dr. Homer Newell, an official of the Naval Research Laboratory. Newell said he was uncertain about the timing, however.)

(Newell said it is hoped the experiment will clear up some of the mysterious about a layer of sodium which scientists believe hovers 60 miles above the earth. He added that the project also may supply important data for the man-made earth satellite vehicle which the United States hopes to hurl between 200 and 300 miles above the earth in 1957.)

There are difficulties in releasing the sodium vapor. Boiling of the metal to release the vapor has been suggested but it has proved troublesome, Bates declared.

"The Americans may release a grenade from a rocket which, on exploding, would vaporize the metal," he said.

The upper atmosphere contains about one part in a billion of sodium which produces a great deal of the light in the air, he explained, and by greatly increasing the amount he believed the "full moon" effect would be created.

The Royal Society, the leading body of British scientists, disclosed that Britain is entering the field of exploring the earth's upper atmosphere with high altitude rockets.

Until recently, known Western research in this field has been done exclusively by American scientists. The British announcement added that a similar program also has been started in France.

Britain's high-altitude rockets will be distinct from the small earth satellite which the United States announced last week it planned to send into the sky to revolve about the earth for scientific observations.

The Royal Society program, to be carried out by the Ministry of Supply, aims at developing within two years rockets capable of carrying 100 pounds of scientific instruments up to heights of 120 miles or more.

CLAPP QUITTING, EXPECTED TO JOIN LILIENTHAL FIRM

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 3—Gordon R. Clapp, deputy city administrator, has resigned effective Aug. 26 to go into private consulting work, reportedly with his old friend and former colleague on the Tennessee Valley Authority, David E. Lilienthal. Clapp was one of the directors of the TVA when it was formed in 1933. He served later as its general manager under the chairmanship of Lilienthal, and he succeeded Lilienthal as chairman in 1946. Lilienthal is now engaged in private consulting work in New York. The resignation was announced by Dr. Luther Gulick, city administrator, who said that Clapp would leave the city service after his present vacation. While the announcement did not mention that Clapp will be associated with Lilienthal, city hall sources indicated that was the fact. Mayor Robert F. Wagner cited the Clapp resignation as another example of the difficulty encountered in trying to hold able men in public office on the low salaries the city pays. He called Clapp "an able and distinguished American." Clapp's salary was $20,000 a year in the job he held since last year. Canada's Population 15,601,000 OTTAWA, Aug. 3 (AP)—Canada's population has passed 15,600,000. The Bureau of Statistics yesterday reported its June 1 population estimate was 15,601,000, up 2.7 per cent from June 1, 1954.

EAST SIDE PAWNSHOP OWNER ARRESTED IN SALE OF PISTOL

Harry Kaiser, owner of a pawnshop at 107 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, was arrested yesterday and charged with violating a new municipal ordinance barring sale of firearms to persons lacking permits. The arrest was the first under a 1954 law providing a maximum fine of $200. Kaiser's arrest followed that of his customer, Benton Frazer, 800 block of Point drive, Lemay, whose automobile was searched early yesterday by police who said they saw him fail to observe two stop signs. A pistol was found in his machine, and he was charged with carrying a concealed weapon. Frazer, who had just left a night club, identified himself to

MANY OF BILLS PRESIDENT URGED LEFT ON SHELF

14 Important Measures Fail to Pass—Promise Controversy in Election Year.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—The things Congress left undone, a big part of the story of this year's session, promise lively controversy in 1956.

A substantial part of President Eisenhower's program either was left on the shelf by Congress or else succeeded in getting only part of the way through before the first session of the Eighty-fourth Congress ended early today.

Fourteen important measures which the President asked for in his State of the Union message or in later messages and statements did not reach his desk.

In addition, several other major bills for which the steam originated in Congress itself were left on base at least until January. All pending legislation will be alive when Congress returns for a new session on Jan. 3.

The remaining unfinished business promises to add to the heat of a 1956 session already certain to be filled with oratory and political maneuvering, since it is a presidential election year.

Highway Bill

Perhaps the most important Eisenhower bills left hanging were those to start a multi-billion dollar expansion of the highway building program and to aid local school districts unable to keep up with construction needs.

The Senate passed a road bill which omitted the bond-financing feature supported by the President. But the House became snarled over how to pay for the new highways, and last week killed both the Administration proposal and a Democratic substitute calling for new taxes.

Neither branch passed a school construction bill, although the House Education Committee approved one in the closing days of the session. In the Senate the measure remained snarled in committee over a dispute as to whether to put on an anti-segregation provision.

Many members of Congress pushed bills for much larger direct federal grants to the school districts than Mr. Eisenhower favored. His bill placed chief emphasis on loans.

Bills Passed by One Chamber. These were Administration bills which passed only one branch:

Upper Colorado river authorization—Passed the Senate and approved by House committee. Customs simplification—passed the House. Tied up in controversy in the Senate finance committee.

Pay increase for cabinet officers and several hundred other top government executives—Passed the House, but died in the Senate last night despite strong Administration pressure on it.

Military survivors' benefits—Passed the House. The Senate finance committee said it was too complicated to handle this year, although Mr. Eisenhower sent personal word he would appreciate quick action.

No Action on Many Measures. These were measures asked for by the President which neither body passed:

A constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18 in federal elections.

Revision of the Taft-Hartley labor-management relations law. An increase in postal rates to reduce the deficit of the Post Office Department.

A federal reinsurance program to bolster and expand private health insurance plans.

Hawaiian statehood—The House voted down a combined Hawaiian-Alaskan statehood bill. The Administration opposed statehood for Alaska.

Liberalization of refugee relief act.

Atomic peace ship—the House passed an atomic merchant ship bill, but not the demonstration ship asked for by the President. The Eisenhower project was approved by the Senate-House Atomic Energy's Committee last Friday, but did not get through either branch.

Program of loans and other aids to low-income farmers—one minor measure passed Congress, but the principal legislation was not acted on.

In addition, several major bills which largely originated among members of Congress failed to win final passage this session, but most of them are likely to be revived early next year.

For All His Appearance of Being
Busybody, India's Roving Menon
Has Helped Ease World Tension

Arrived at Geneva 'by coincidence' and Conferred With U.S. and Red China
Ambassadors — Symbolizes Nation's Desire to Lead and Mediate in Asia.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

(Copyright, 1955, The Pulitzer Publishing Co.)

GENEVA, Aug. 3.

OF the actors who move across the international stage with such extraordinary speed, thanks to the airplane, none is more controversial today than India's V. K. Krishna Menon. His tall, almost emaciated figure can be seen hovering on the periphery of the great events that seem in this remarkable summer to be reshaping the world.

He came to Geneva at the beginning of the Chinese-American conference, told reporters his arrival at that moment was a pure coincidence and then held two long talks with each of the principals, Ambassador Wang Pingnan for Red China and Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson for the United States. He left for India after two days convinced that the ambassadorial meeting had removed the prisoner issue and had thereby opened the way to a second stage, at which the Foreign Ministers of the two powers would meet. He wore as he boarded the plane the somewhat martyred look of one who feels that his efforts in behalf of peace are unappreciated, or at any rate not appreciated in America.

As to where the credit lies for release of the prisoners, which may or may not represent the beginning of later negotiations at a higher level to resolve far more complicated and difficult issues, no one at this close range can say. Certainly great credit goes to Dag Hammarskjöld for his persistent efforts through the United Nations. But, in the view of this observer, when the record is written it will show that for all his appearance of being a busybody, Menon has also contributed to the current easing of the tension that from time to time in the past two years has threatened to bring war.

Irritates Americans.

In many respects he symbolizes the Indian desire to lead and mediate in Asia; the sensitivity of nationhood newly won after years of colonial subjection. One reason he has so irritated Americans, both officialdom and the press, is that he has also been a kind of symbol of the Asian attitude which he reproachfully, over and over again, insisted that America subject toward Communist China is unrealistic and must be altered if there is to be peace in the world. This is perhaps the unhappy dilemma of American foreign policy, with deep emotional overtones growing out of China's intervention in the Korean war and its tragic consequences.

One of the first lessons of mature diplomacy is to pocket pride and frankly use the instruments at hand to the ends that serve one's own country and, in a larger context, the peace of the world. Menon has also irritated British officialdom, but he has been received with patience and politeness in the belief that he has some contribution to make in bridging the vast gap between Asia and the West.

Without regard to how it may compare with the record as finally written, here is Menon's own version of the steps he has taken to bring Red China and the United States together. During a visit to Peiping in the spring he discussed with Chou En-lai the possibility of an ambassadorial meeting. In the following weeks he was closely in touch with Chou, who agreed to the kind of conference now going on.

At the White House on July 6,

Menon put the concept of a conference up to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. They indicated it would be possible to hold such a meeting. Menon passed this word on to Indian Prime Minister Nehru, who was then in London at the conclusion of his visit to Russia and the satellite states.

Nehru, with the backing of British Prime Minister Eden, used all his influence to get both sides to agree on the kind of limited objectives set for the present conference. For Nehru, ever since the beginning of Indian independence, the dominant motivation has been to avoid war at almost any cost, with the realization that another war, regardless of the degree of Indian involvement, would make it utterly impossible to weld a nation out of the sprawling subcontinent the Nehru government took over from the British. This has been the dominant motivation with other Asian powers—Burma, Indonesia, Ceylon.

In America it has looked like appeasement or worse and Menon has been denounced again and again as the prime mover of surrender to Communism. He has been accused of being blindly partial to the Chinese Reds and blindly critical of America, and the last accusation he particularly resents.

The Communist Chinese mean to go through with an agreement to try to agree, as the Russians did at the summit conference, then Menon as prophet of peace may have his day in India if not in America.

Would Save Face.

In discussing the prospects for reconciliation with statesmen in various capitals, he has gone to extraordinary lengths, even suggesting that Peiping might eventually give Chiang Kai-shek a job — perhaps as governor of Formosa for a year or two, in return to save face all around. This has of course a wildly impossible sound, but as the peace of Geneva grows brighter and brighter one ends by feeling that anything may happen and it is a fact that in the past six months to nine months important figures in the Kuomintang movement have gone over to Peiping.

As fitting emissary of peace and good will, or meddler and busybody, if you prefer, Menon may underrate elements in both Washington and Peiping standing in the way of a larger solution. He left Geneva convinced that a Chinese-American conference of foreign ministers will take place. But this causes shudders in many quarters in Washington.

What must not be lost sight of, however, is that the achievement of the summit meeting and to a lesser degree, if one may judge at this stage what is happening in this second, true meeting, is irreversible. To reverse the truce of Geneva would be to bring the prospect of nuclear war as an alternative to negotiation closer than it has ever been before, and the peoples on both sides of the Great Divide have shown they will not have that.

Eisenhower Popularity at Peak
Since Big 4 Parley, Poll Shows

79 Pct. Express Approval of Way He Is Handling Office—Highest Such Rating Since Truman's 82 Pct. in 1945.

By GEORGE GALLUP

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N.J., Aug. 3.

A SPECIAL INSTITUTE SURVEY to determine the effect of the Big Four Geneva conference on President Eisenhower's popularity finds that virtually eight out of every 10 adults in the United States approve the way he is handling his job as Chief Executive. Mr. Eisenhower's previous high point of 75 per cent was recorded in September 1953, just after the Korean armistice. Today's figure represents the highest popularity rating obtained for a President since October 1945, when President Truman's popularity index stood at 82 per cent.

The last previous survey of standing with voters has been remarkable because of the absence of any wide fluctuations in his popularity curve. The jump of 10 points from June's figure of 69 per cent to today's 79 per cent, in little more than a month, represents the most active movement the Eisenhower popularity curve has shown. Starting with an approval vote of 68 per cent in February, 1953, President Eisenhower reached 75 per cent seven months later following the termination of hostilities in Korea. As signs of farmer unrest multiplied, the President's popularity dropped 15 points in three months and reached a low of 60 per cent in December 1953.

The vote:

Disapprove — — — 13%
No opinion — — — 8%

Obviously, the figures do not represent the number who would actually vote for him in a presidential election. In the 30-month interval since his inauguration, the President's

EISENHOWER GETS FURNITURE USED IN PRE-D-DAY TALKS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—The White House yesterday announced receipt from an anonymous donor of the antique table, chairs and carpet used by President Eisenhower and allied leaders when he was supreme commander in England planning the invasion of Europe in World War II.

The historic furnishings were placed temporarily in the President's office and ultimately may go to the Eisenhower museum in Kansas.

"We don't know the name of the donor and we are making no attempt to find out," said White House press secretary James C. Hagerty.

The furnishings were brought here from England as a gift to the President and the Eisenhower Foundation to mark the tenth anniversary of VE day last May 8.

They were acquired from the owners of Stanwell House, near London, where crucial decisions on D-day plans were made. The building, unknown to most allied personnel, was dubbed "hush-house." It was there that Gen. Eisenhower held regular meetings on plans for the Normandy invasion between January and May 1944.

U.S. Reassures
Formosa Over
Geneva Parley

Envoy Says Talks
Will Not Injure Interests of the Nationalists.

TAIPEI, Formosa,
Aug. 3 (UPI).

UNITED STATES Charge d'Affaires William Cochran today reassured the Nationalist Chinese that the United States-people talks now in progress in Geneva would not injure the interests of "our ally."

The top United States diplomat in Formosa thus teamed up with Nationalist Foreign Minister George Yeh who has been trying to quiet anger and suspicion which has welled up in Formosa over the United States-Red Chinese ambassadorial talks. Cochran spoke bluntly in referring to the Chinese Nationalist press which has unleashed the most bitter flood of anti-American sentiments ever expressed in Formosa.

Cochran said, "The United States has no right to represent your government in negotiations but has no right to the release of our own citizens. I am surprised at the intensity of emotional ferment and the volume of criticism of ally which has been going on. I am not anxious to add to it."

He said he regretted that United States motives were so misconstrued. Cochran said the comments carried by the Nationalist papers were based not on facts but only on suspicions.

He said, "It is important that people weigh such tangibles as the signed and ratified mutual defense treaty with your country, the sizable increase in MAAG (United States Military Advisory Assistance Group) taking place and the fact that a part of the Thirteenth Air Force is on Formosa."

"The facts are that the Geneva talks are a continuation of talks begun last year by the same men, U. Alexis Johnson, concerning the return of civilian and military personnel held by the Red Chinese. Another thing is that your Government was informed of these talks in advance of the public announcement."

The American diplomat reminded the Nationalist Chinese that their own spokesman, Wu Nan-ju, publicly stated that nothing was to be discussed at Geneva "affecting your claims and rights."

U.S. Policy Is Blend of Optimism
Of President, Pessimism of Dulles

Two Approaches Spring From Differences in Personality and Experience and Were Obvious in Big 4 Parley Events.

By GEORGE H. HALL

A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.

THE question whether the United States may have two approaches to foreign policy—the optimism of President Eisenhower and the pessimism of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles—has been of interest recently to students of international relations.

The difference in attitude of the two men was summed up in a cartoon several weeks ago by Herblock of the Washington Post and Times-Herald. It showed a sunny and happy Eisenhower and a miserably gloomy Dulles setting out for the Big Four conference at Geneva. "We'll be there, rain or shine," was the caption.

The difference is partly one of personality and partly one stemming from experience. The President and his Secretary of State may often complement one another or pursue antagonistic courses, according to the viewpoint of the observer.

There is nothing alarming about this. Soviet Russian policy frequently proceeds in several directions at the same time. In politics it is often the part of wisdom to hedge every pledge.

Several Illustrations.

The weeks leading up to the summit conference at Geneva, which began July 18, provided a number of illustrations of the divergence in outlook, none perhaps so indicative as the May 17 television broadcast of a discussion between Mr. Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles.

Dulles, who had made quite a point of deferring to Mr. Eisenhower and his leadership during the broadcast, moved into the field of the approaching heads-of-government conference with a warning that no one knew better than the President that "such a meeting has dangers as well as opportunities."

"The biggest danger of all is the danger that hopes will be raised so high that they can't possibly be realized," said Dulles. "And then, two things will happen: either there will be an open disillusionment and a feeling of dismay on the part of the people, and a feeling that after all nothing can be done."

President Breaks In.

The Secretary continued voicing his forebodings until Mr. Eisenhower broke in with: "Foster, I don't believe that danger is quite so great as it once was, because my mail shows that the American people are really pretty well aware of what is going on. They realize this is

Things apparently began to look brighter to Dulles. He agreed the American people were not going to get their expectations too high, but he added "there is, perhaps, rather more danger in some of the other countries than there is in the United States."

Dulles then continued to grow a little more optimistic, in line with the President's attitude. He still had the risks and dangers and doubts on his mind, however.

President Has Last Word.

The President had the last word when he said, "We are not going to extinguish the hope that a new dawn may be coming."

The phrase "new dawn" evidently impressed Dulles, in view of a statement he made the following week.

After the broadcast Senator Walter F. George (Dem., Georgia), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, observed that Dulles seemed "a bit overcautious" and "might well have disclosed more determination to approach these problems in a spirit of faith."

This comment by George illustrates part of Dulles's own problem—how to formulate a policy, or at least express it, in a way that does not do violence to the beliefs of either wing of his sharply-split party. George is a Democrat and the

JAPAN PLANNING
MILITARY FORCE

TOKYO, Aug. 3 (AP)—The defense board yesterday disclosed its plan to increase Japan's defense forces by 31,271 men from 164,540 to 195,811.

The ground force would be increased from 139,628 to 161,638 men.

The navy would be hiked 4003 to 20,388 men, manning small surface craft ranging up to destroyers.

The air force would be boosted by 4767 to 11,505 men. Personnel in the Joint Chiefs of Staff, defense college and four other military establishments would get slight increases.

The program envisages acquisition of equipment and transfer of some ground installations by United States security forces.

ITALIAN NAVY STAFF CHIEF

ROME, Aug. 3 (AP)—Adm. Pecorelli Giraldi, wartime battleship commander, was nominated yesterday as chief of staff of the Italian navy.

He will replace Adm. Emilio Ferreri, who was named last May to head the arms control agency of the Western European Union. Giraldi began his navy career in 1917. In the second world war he was skipper of the battleship Vittorio Veneto.

RUSSIA TO SHOW
MODEL OF ATOMIC
ELECTRIC PLANT

GENEVA, Aug. 3 (AP)—The Soviet Union exhibit at the atom-for-peace conference will contain a scale model of the first atomic-powered electric plant to be built in Russia.

This was disclosed last night in a note to the press from the director of the Soviet exhibit. Some reporters and photographers got a quick look at the exhibit yesterday afternoon, but most of the equipment still was in packing cases.

The Soviet note said a film on the atomic power plant also will be shown during the Aug. 8-20 conference.

United States atomic scientists here had been wondering whether the Russians would pull some sort of surprise to try to match the full-size atomic reactor the United States has set up on the Palace of Nations grounds.

In addition to the power plant, the Russians will display equipment for the use of radioactive isotopes in the treatment of malignant tumors, skin ailments and some diseases of the circulatory system.

An engineering section will show how isotopes help solve industrial problems.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Stunting a Tomato Plant

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I try to be a good citizen and I do like a clean city and I intend to do all I am told to do on those five beautifully colored slips of paper I received from the Health Department telling me that my property is cluttered and unkempt.

Those lovely colors sort of soften the shock of realizing that I will be bankrupt when it is all finished. In fact I don't have enough to even make a good start on this project and there will be another inspection in three weeks and maybe the notices will be in still different colors.

That I will receive more notices I am sure because I am a poor weak female and can't do the work myself and have to go to work each day (in order to eat, you know) so I am not at home to boss whomever I hire to tear down everything but the house. (I wonder how they missed that).

But I am afraid I am getting away from the real reason for writing this letter. One of these notices says plants should not be over 18 inches high. Now these tomato plants have gone way past that height and they will have to be destroyed, but I am worrying about next year.

How do you make a tomato plant understand it must stop at 18 inches? Or must I measure them each morning and then cut off the extra growth? But would I get any tomatoes then?

And it's the tomatoes I want, really, not the plants. The plants are pretty, but I am not very fond of them; they smell funny. Would it be fair to turn the tops down and head them towards the ground again?

As a rule tomato plants aren't very cooperative when you try to make them go in a different direction. I suppose it's all right for the city to let its weeds grow over 18 inches because they would not be classed as plants. I don't know whether anyone can help me out with this little problem but do you know just writing this letter makes me feel 100 per cent better? CAMILLE BOSQUET.

The Cool Truth

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I have a hot weather story that should put "Liars Incorporated" to shame.

The other day when it reached a cool 100 I was reclining near my ice box when things started to pop inside the box. I cautiously looked inside. Right in my face was a valuable mixed biscuits came popping out. The heat had got in the cold compartment and opened the can of biscuits and they were popping all over the room.

Can anyone top that? L. R. FOX.

Satellites and Planetarium

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

It should be particularly gratifying to St. Louisans to know that the planetarium recently voted on in the bond issue will be a valuable source of information concerning the man-made space satellites.

It will be possible in the planetarium shows to illustrate how these satellites will function and the part they will play in exploring space.

Certainly not everyone is going to build a rocket ship and get in one. But we all would like to know what problems will be encountered and how we are to solve them.

A planetarium show is a thrilling spectacle under ordinary circumstances. But in view of recent events it takes on a greater significance. We can look forward to it with eagerness and anticipation.

HOWARD C. OHLENDORF.

In Other Words . . .

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

All this hullabaloo about these big business men in government amounts to this: The Democrats want a man who has never been an official of a large firm, never been in business for himself, never done anything but be in politics, feeding at the public trough. In other words, a Democrat! Hah!

CHARLES R. BATES.
Webster Groves.

How?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

This universal responsibility that is projected upon the Negro, especially if he has gained any kind of prominence as an individual, is grossly unfair and represents latent prejudice just as surely as the haymaker Representative Bailey aimed at Representative Adam Powell signified the overt hostility of a bigoted Dixie-land demagogue.

Yet your editorial page, which is certainly a far cry from sharing Representative Bailey's general approach to the segregation issue, also criticized Representative Powell recently and implied that he was attempting to sabotage the federal-aid-for-school-construction bill by offering an anti-segregation amendment.

Perhaps this pertinent question should be put to Representative Powell's easy critics: Exactly how else would you represent a sizeable constituency in Harlem, New York?

Traffic Prescription

Traffic congestion can be solved very easily if we so desire. Just keep making the driver's license code more rigid until the number of cars fit the size of our roads.

With Untied Hands

Senator McCarthy is a desperate man, as his latest reckless attack on the Eisenhower foreign policy shows. When he assails the President as a follower of the Communist line, Geneva as a route for the free world, and the current negotiations with Peiping as a sellout of Chiang Kai-shek, he speaks for a negligible fraction of the public.

Not even Senator Knowland, himself no mean champion of Chiang, could stomach the McCarthy tantrum. He rose to the defense of the Administration whose purposes he has sometimes seemed to doubt, and denied on the highest authority that any deal had been made to exchange the 11 flyers for Quemoy and Matsu.

This was splendid of Mr. Knowland. But was there an ominous hint of warning to the Administration in his remark that any such "nefarious deal" as McCarthy cited would in his own judgment be "an act of national dishonor and a betrayal of our national pledged word"?

The trouble is that nobody can be quite sure how Senator Knowland defines his terms. Some of his comments recently indicate that he would regard any negotiations about the offshore islands or even about the Nationalist navy's blockade of the mainland as a "nefarious deal." Secretary Dulles must be wondering, then, just what kind of further negotiations he could undertake with Knowland's consent.

It seems to us that any foreign-minister conversations with the Peiping regime, like the recent Big Four conference, should be conducted with a minimum of advance commitments tying the participants' hands. It also seems to us that if discussions are worth holding at all—as indeed they are—they ought to deal with serious and important matters that have contributed to the frictions and war dangers in the Far East. There is little point in negotiations if nothing significant is open for negotiation.

Secretary Dulles told his press conference that this is not the time to negotiate an ultimate, permanent settlement of the Formosa problem. He is right about that. Senator George is also right when he says that this is not the time to negotiate with Peiping about a United Nations seat for Red China.

But when these two issues have been excluded for the time being, Secretary Dulles should be left free to discuss just about every other subject bearing on the Far Eastern situation. He should be free to listen to all of Peiping's complaints, and to detail all of our complaints against Peiping. He should be free to explore all possible avenues of conciliation and peace.

Chiang's government would have a right to be consulted about any permanent Formosa settlement which determined its own fate, but it has no right to attend foreign-minister consultations being held for the purpose of relaxing tensions and easing the danger of war in the Formosa strait. This is a matter of trying to arrive at agreed policies affecting the issues between Peiping and Washington. Chiang at such a conference would be interested more in blocking agreement than in aiding it. He should be required to throw his monkey wrenches from a distance.

It would be a tragedy if Secretary Dulles were inhibited by domestic political considerations, from discussing with Chou En-lai the real immediate issues. The demilitarization or evacuation of Quemoy and Matsu certainly should be discussed, for these islands are a principal source of friction and war danger. A cease-fire or truce agreement certainly should be discussed, and this might appropriately include a pledge against the future use of force in that area. The possibility of gradual relaxation of restrictions on trade should certainly be discussed. So should all other means of working toward improved economic and cultural relations.

Judging by Marquis Childs's report from Geneva, agreement has been reached that removes the prisoner issue from the field of controversy. This development, together with Peiping's release of the 11 flyers, should open the door for broader discussions within six months. Let us keep the door open.

Congressional Junket Season

With the adjournment of Congress comes the season of the junket. There are signs that the next five months of Congressional globe-trotting with all expenses paid are going to result in the nation's lawmakers setting a new record. They are going to all the far corners of the earth, ostensibly to familiarize themselves with world conditions.

The members of the Senate and House foreign affairs committees should, as usual, come back the best-traveled of all. Some of the House members, for instance, will visit Great Britain, France, Germany, Austria, Yugoslavia, Greece, Turkey, Italy, the Middle East, Far East and South Africa. Many Senate and House tourists are expected to enjoy the grandeur of Switzerland as a result of the atom-for-peace conference that opens on Aug. 8 in Geneva.

The full expense of the junketing, which nearly every season takes some Congressman completely around the world, is never revealed since not all of it represents an actual cash outlay from the Treasury. Except in Latin America and Australia, the traveling Congressmen can draw on counterpart funds, earmarked for United States use, in the lands they visit. All countries receiving U.S. aid set aside an equivalent amount in a special fund, 10 per cent of which is available for defraying administrative and other expenses of the Government. These funds, which do not have to be carefully accounted for, represent bonanzas for traveling Congressmen.

Waste is sure to occur even where funds do have to be accounted for. Congress should stop the misuse of counterpart funds and tighten up on appropriating funds for all trips that are clearly nothing more than junkets.

Speaking for the Dolls

The case of the doll industry, which fired by mistake on President Eisenhower for buying dolls in Geneva for his grandchildren, illuminates a subject that fascinates us without cease. The subject being, who, in this age of ghost-writers, public relations build-up boys and advertising agency package entertainment, is responsible for what?

The president of the National Association of Doll Manufacturers, David Rosenstein, was quoted in an association press release as saying the entire American doll industry was "shocked" at President Eisenhower for buying Swiss dolls. Mr. Rosenstein later explained that he had not authorized the release and that his opinions were just exactly the opposite of those expressed in his behalf. In fact, Mr. Rosenstein had bought some dolls at the very store the President had patronized. The erroneous statement had been issued, he said, because of the overzealousness of a young press agent.

Was Mr. Rosenstein perhaps a mite under-zealous in permitting a situation to exist in which he could be publicly quoted without having personally any idea of what he was officially saying?

The question is interesting because it is so general, extending way beyond Mr. Rosenstein or the doll association. How much of the opinion by which people form their knowledge of each other has become pre-fabricated and push-button? We should like to see a re-dawning of the day when, if the president of the Awake, Americans' Association thundered an opinion that a crisis had arisen on a given front, we could be dead sure it was the president of A.A.A. who was doing the talking, and not "just a young fellow" who "made a mistake."

Mr. Dixon's Trouble

The Kefauver Anti-Monopoly subcommittee has taken a proper course in referring Edgar H. Dixon's testimony to the Attorney General for consideration whether it warrants prosecution for perjury.

The senior partner in the Dixon-Yates power syndicate now testifies to the investigators that he became worried about the dual role of Adolphe W. Wenzell as early as February of 1954.

He talked with his attorney at that time about the possibility that conflict-of-interest charges might be brought against the First Boston Corp. first vice president under the criminal code. His lawyer advised him to consult First Boston and the Bureau of the Budget.

First Boston advised its first vice president to quit his Budget Bureau post, in which he had already created the prototype for the Dixon-Yates deal and advised on the financing of the specific contract. To keep its own skirts clear, First Boston waived its fee for the Dixon-Yates contract—a substantial sum, for it had charged $150,000 plus $20,000 expenses in handling an earlier financing job for the Atomic Energy Commission.

Ten months after Mr. Dixon had received these double indications that Mr. Wenzell might be dynamite, he testified to the Securities and Exchange Commission in its hearings on equity capital for Dixon-Yates. He was asked to name First Boston officials with whom he had talked to get money-market information. Mr. Dixon replied that he had talked "directly or indirectly" with Duncan R. Linsley, one of First Boston's forty-odd vice presidents.

That was last December. Six months later, in June, Mr. Dixon was called back to testify in SEC's hearings on Dixon-Yates borrowings for the proposed plant. He was asked the same question and again gave the same answer.

Senator Kefauver now confronts Mr. Dixon with the fact that Mr. Linsley was out of the country at the time, and draws from Mr. Dixon the admission that he talked with Mr. Wenzell and that Mr. Wenzell was the only First Boston official he did talk with.

Whether Mr. Dixon's earlier statements were perjury or not, they certainly were at sharp variance with the story he now tells. That is par for the course. The Dixon-Yates affair has been one long and continuous record of secretiveness and misinformation about the public's business. Some people, no doubt, would like to sweep the whole mess under the rug and forget it. The Kefauver subcommittee should refuse to be diverted. The full truth is worth establishing, even if the contract has been cancelled.

Come On In

Fine weather these days—for swimming. An English girl swam from Capri to Naples in a race won by an Argentinian, a Canadian girl swam across the English Channel and a Yugoslav who dropped his passport overboard dived into New York Harbor and came up with the document in his teeth. Meanwhile Antonio Abertondo of Argentina swam 221 miles down the Mississippi from St. Louis, ran into a backward current and became exhausted 71 miles short of Catfishersville.

Senator Abertondo's swim was big news in Argentina. And his venture with Mississippi catfish and currents must have swelled the reputation of the Father of Waters. There were fish that gnawed on the swimmer, eddies that drove him three miles upstream, whole trees coursing along in the muddy torrent. All true, too.

Perhaps there is little continuity in all this marine activity, but it does seem that the idea is to swim somewhere else. In retrospect, the distant swimming hole always was more challenging. English girls swimming down the Thames, or Argentinians in the Plata, do not make much news, and whoever heard of a Neapolitan outward bound for Capri with an Australian crawl? It would be pointless. About the last local boy to make any reputation in his home waters was Leander, and he failed to go places in the end.

'It Shall Be the Duty'

When the members of the County Council consider the question of letting the people vote on expressways at the special election Oct. 4, we hope each of them will keep in mind the statute governing petitions for bond issue elections. The statute says:

Upon the presentation of such petition it shall be the duty of the county court of such county to order that an election be held for the purpose set forth in the petition, which order shall, among other things, specify the time, place and purpose of the election. Such an election may be a special election, or it may be held on the day of any primary or general election authorized to be held by the laws of this state.

This state law is a law to be obeyed. It is especially pertinent just now because the County Council has in its hands for more than four months a valid petition by the required number of citizens, calling for an election on a bond issue of $8,500,000 for expressways and of $800,000 for a new children's building. The expressway fund, if approved, would pay for the county's share of right-of-way costs for the proposed Mark Twain, Daniel Boone, Ozark and outer belt expressways.

"It shall be the duty" of the county authorities to submit a bond issue to the people when a valid petition requests it. So says the state law. This does not mean that any member of the Council is required to approve a bond issue thus proposed. Every member, of course, is free to fight it if he likes. But he has a clear legal duty to submit the proposition for final decision by the people at the polls.

Let the people vote on expressways Oct. 4!

Even Harder to Understand

Bulgaria has changed its story about the wanton shooting down of the Israeli airliner. It now says that two fighter planes—and not anti-aircraft gunners—brought the plane down. This makes the incident even harder to understand since the fighter pilots, who had to fly close to the airliner to hit it, should have been even more certain than gunners on the ground that the plane was harmless. The least that Bulgaria can now do is to bring swift punishment to all concerned in this terrible incident.

The Case for Electronic Journalism

Between Book Ends

The Mirror
Public Opinion

C.B.S. executive says law requiring radio-TV to give equal time to rival political candidates means stations often give them little time; press under no such curbs; urges change to permit broadcasters more discretion in way they cover campaigns.

Frank Stanton, President of the Columbia Broadcasting System, in the New York Herald Tribune

In 1858 the most famous series of American political debates took place between Abraham Lincoln and Stephen Douglas, Republican and Democratic candidates for the Senate from Illinois. Only some 75,000 people saw and heard these distinguished debates.

In 1956, television could make it possible for some 115,000,000 people simultaneously to see and hear the presidential candidates' debate. Radio could add another 25,000,000 people to the audience.

But a modern-day electronic version of the Lincoln-Douglas debates which would bring the leading presidential candidates face to face on the television screen for the whole nation to see and hear is for all practical purposes made impossible by Section 315 of the Federal Communications Act. This section provides that while broadcasting stations need not provide any air time to political candidates, if a station does provide time for any candidate, it must provide equivalent time to every other candidate for the same office.

Fair as that may seem, the provision drops an iron curtain between voters and candidates. This is so because, for the broadcaster, there is no such thing as a two-party system. In 1952, there were 18 parties with presidential candidates who qualified in one or more states.

What Is Free for One . . .

As a result of this multiplicity of parties, Section 315 effectively precludes giving any free time to the Democratic and Republican presidential candidates, whether for debates or any other purpose. For if a station gives free time to the Republican and Democratic candidates, it would be obliged, under pain of losing its license, to provide the same amount of time to each presidential candidate of each of the other 16 parties.

Section 315 not only prevents an electronic version of the Lincoln-Douglas debates, it also tends to dilute broadcasters' efforts most effectively to cover significant campaign events. It keeps broadcasters from inviting candidates to panel and interview type programs such as "Face the Nation" and "Meet the Press"—excellent opportunities for sharpening political issues and introducing candidates first hand to the citizens.

In short, the effect of Section 315 is to stifle, rather than encourage, political discussion on radio and television during campaigns. It denies broadcasters their roles as members of the free press. One can well imagine that the great metropolitan newspapers would hesitate to print major speeches of major candidates or excerpts from press conferences, if by doing so the newspapers were thus obliged to print the speeches and comments of every minor candidate for the same office.

For these reasons, the Columbia Broadcasting System has proposed that Congress modify Section 315. In order that broadcasters may better fulfill their function as electronic journalists in bringing facts, faces and information to the public during political campaigns, we have suggested that Section 315 be amended so as to exempt news, news interview, news documentary, panel discussion, debate or similar types of programs.

Offer to Major Candidates

The law would remain the same for regular campaign speeches or appearances which are under the control of the candidate so that if the station provided free time for such appearances, it would have to provide time for similar appearances by all opponents.

But under the C.B.S. proposal, where the broadcasting coverage is part of a station's function and is under the production control of the station, we urge that stations and networks be given full discretion as long as all significant viewpoints are presented.

If Congress amends Section 315 as we propose, C.B.S. would provide free time for the major presidential candidates to debate the main issues. One way this might be done would be to have a group of the country's leading newsmen, during the closing weeks of the campaign, designate the half dozen or so chief issues as they have developed. In special "live" programs, C.B.S. would invite the candidates to speak, one after the other, on these issues from wherever they may be.

A Debate for the Nation

If the law is amended to make provisions such as these possible, the public will benefit because television and radio will have such tremendous circulation and impact, will be able to fulfill their roles in bringing the major candidates directly to the public.

We believe that this would provide an enormous safeguard to our democracy; we share the basic belief of our Founding Fathers that the citizens' opportunity to know and to judge for himself at first hand will result in the best possible decisions in the polling booths.

By making it possible, through television and radio, for the major candidates to face each other and at the same time to face the American citizen directly in his own home, we will have taken a long step forward in strengthening our democratic processes.

Summer Weather

From The New York Times

It has been rather warm hereabouts for several days, fine growing weather, they used to say. But there has been the normal amount of complaining about the abnormal, because New York City is not accustomed to an unbroken succession of days up in the nineties.

The normal maximum in July in New York, over thirty years, has been 82 degrees, exactly the same as in that perfect climate of Honolulu, and the normal minimum 67. This works out to a monthly normal of 75, as compared with St. Louis's 81, Washington's 73,

Chicago's 75 and Los Angeles's 72. Our August normal drops to 73. That Pravda correspondent who found San Francisco cooler than New York has statistical support. The July normal is 59 out there. On the other hand, if he had gone to Baghdad he would have found an average 95 degrees, and if he had happened to be near Tripoli in 1922 he could have seen a thermometer reading 136.4.

But there is nothing wrong with our climate that a good, normal breeze won't fix, one of these days.

The Nasty Business of Smut

PARADE OF PLEASURE. A STUDY IN POPULAR ICONOGRAPHY IN THE U.S.A., by Geoffrey Wagner. (Library Publishers, New York, 192 pp., $4.)

Here is a book for those who deplore laws adopted for the control of the new "smut and horror press." Their fear that the camera of censorship may be getting his nose under the tent is not to be laughed off. But the evidence here presented may persuade them that society is up against an extremely nasty business which is full of evils more imminent than possible interference with the freedom of the press.

Here is evidence which most of us have never seen and barely heard about. It shows that the House of Commons, for example, was not rashly ignoring ancient liberties when, with the cooperation of a committee of respected authors, it decreed that the publication and circulation of the kind of smut which so frequently—and so oddly—is offered as "comics."

In fairness to the author—Geoffrey Wagner, former Oxford athlete and wounded veteran—it must be said that he does not argue that the censor should have other controls. But at the end of one of his chapters—apparently in despair—he says he is afraid there may be no remedy other than police action.

His book, which it can hardly have been a dispassionate, objective study of the more recent forms of the exploitation of crime, pornography and depravity. That it stops short of achieving this objective is understandable: the stuff which it treats is beyond the language of a decent writer just as the publisher's illustrations can only suggest what is coming off presses where there is no conscience and no sense of social responsibility. And this stuff is being poured out in a volume which would seem unbelievable but for Mr. Wagner's careful documentation.

The new pornography—and worse—is considered chiefly under the heading of films, comics, so-called detective stories or crookbooks and the pin-up magazines. The movies, American and British, come off fairly well. For the most part, their offenses are a certain crude lack of discrimination and an ill-considered pseudo-realism. But in type and drawing, no holds seem barred.

Just as it is difficult for individuals to agree on the point at which bad taste becomes smut, so it is difficult to distinguish the precise reprehensibility of each of the offending publications. Some fall into a gray zone where one tolerates without approving. But about many there is no argument.

For those charged with some responsibility for accepted standards of decency, this poses problems. It would be easy all around if the whole mess could be ignored as a matter for individual taste and of no consequence to the community. But Mr. Wagner has shown by careful reference to the records of police, juvenile authorities, psychiatrists and the like that this method of providing anything for a quick dollar does have demonstrably direct results.

How to cope with this is the community's problem. Mr. Wagner only shows that the stuff is real, not just a matter of exaggerated protests in ladies' magazines. And that is a service.

ERNEST KIRSCHEN.

A GUIDE TO UNDERWATER PHOTOGRAPHY, by Dimitri Rabitoff and Paul Charney. (Greenberg, N. Y., $1.95.)

The rise in popularity of submarine photography and movie-making which has kept pace with that of the pastime of skin diving and underwater spearfishing makes this a welcome addition to the Camera and Photographic Guide Series. It should be as useful to the advanced camera fan as to the beginner.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Talbot, Two Men in One Job?

WASHINGTON.

THE MYSTERY OF THE TALBOT CASE is how he managed to act so foolishly, and the best explanation would seem to be that he has been two men, public official and private promoter, inhabiting the same body. The resigned Secretary of the Air Force and the Mulligan partner have lived and worked side by side in the Pentagon, each more or less uncontrolled by the other.

The Secretary did not serve the partner corruptly, but neither did he rule the partner properly. There is no evidence, I believe, that Mr. Talbot used his power as Secretary of the Air Force to induce or compel defense contractors to give profitable business to the Mulligan firm. There is no evidence, that is to say, that he meant to act corruptly. On the contrary, the evidence, including his own admission of his mistakes, shows that the Secretary was not really aware of what the Mulligan partner was doing. Had he realized it, had he been acting consciously and corruptly, he would have taken the trouble, as a competent villain would, to cover his tracks.

The last thing he would have done was what Talbot actually did do, which was to promote his private business from his office in the Pentagon and with the help of Air Force personnel and on Air Force stationery.

Hard Way to Make Sense.

There is no obvious explanation of such extraordinary foolishness. There is no doubt that he had been proud and happy to be Secretary of the Air Force, and that he was deeply attached to his high and honorable office. There is no doubt that he is a rich man to whom $60,000 is not important money; and that it could buy him nothing remotely so precious as his public office.

There is no doubt, on the other hand, that his Mulligan activities, once they were known, were obviously bound to ruin his public career. There is no doubt, moreover, that his activities will hurt badly the Mulligan firm itself.

The whole performance makes no sense except on the theory that Talbot was two men, and that when the Mulligan partner was in charge of his body, the Secretary of the Air Force was sleeping and unconscious. For no Secretary of the Air Force who was functioning at all could have supposed that it was right to promote from his office in the Pentagon a profitable private business on the fringes of the national defense.

The question, then, is why the Secretary of the Air Force did not govern the promoter, why he did not enforce the standards of public behavior upon the state business man. There is here a great and persistent ethical question which has been discussed since the days of the Greek moralists.

Confused and Weak.

Can a man who knows what is right do wrong—can he knowingly give in to his appetite, say for the Mulligan profits? Socrates held that no one acts against what he knows to be the right—that men act wrongly from ignorance.

But Aristotle disagreed with Socrates, pointing out that a man may do what is wrong if his convictions about what is right are confused and weak, not clear and strong. In this deplorable case we must, I believe, side with Aristotle and say that as compared with the avarice of the Mulligan partner the moral convictions of the Secretary were confused and weak.

It has been pointed out that the Talbot case poses the problem of the workability and the fairness of the old statute about "conflict of interests." There is, of course, such a problem, and it is a very difficult one. But the Talbot case bears only indirectly, in my view, on that problem. For no matter how much the statutes were liberalized, it could never be stretched to the point of tolerating the use of a public office to promote a private business that is closely related to the public business.

The law might be revised, for example, to permit a man to keep his old securities, and to receive the dividends. But nobody would suggest that it could be made lawful for him to use the facilities of public office to enhance the value of his securities.

It is possible to say in the law that an official must not make a private profit out of his public actions. But it is not possible to set down in the law just how he must decide the more complicated issues where his private interest, though it is involved, cannot be measured in dollars and cents. His moral duty is to decide every question on public grounds alone, regardless of whether this hurts or helps him, his family, his political party, his friends, or his private interest. But here, not the law but only an instructed conscience can help him make the decision.

For Conscience, Not Law.

In the case of a high and conspicuous public official, who must not only do his job but cannot help setting an example, the sovereign rule is never to give his private interests the benefit of any doubt. Talbot seems not to have understood that rule.

Though I think it has no bearing on the Talbot case, which is quite simple and obvious, the wider problems of the conflict of interests need to be re-examined and reconsidered. They are a complicated cluster of problems.

One of them, though only one, arises from the fact that for many business executives the holding of a public office is not a new career but an interlude in their normal careers. The question is whether a temporary public servant can be expected, or should be required, to reorganize his private affairs as if he were a federal judge or a civil servant in a lifetime career.

Too Many Outsiders Used.

We must, I think ask ourselves whether, except in the emergency of war, it is good public policy to rely so much on temporary officials. For myself I do not think it is. For no matter how able the business executive, it will take him a long time to learn the public business.

The Pentagon has seen a continuing stream of civilian officials, coming in with no knowledge of the Pentagon and going out just about when they have acquired some knowledge. Does not the public business of national defense require civilian as well as military officers who make the national defense the work of their lives?

Sometimes I wonder whether the President is not mistaken in thinking that a trained private executive and a trained public official are interchangeable. For instead of building up a corps of high career officials, he seems to be trying to get along with men borrowed temporarily from the official hierarchy of the private corporations.

OFFERS AID TO STUDY OF CITY AND COUNTY

Citizens Committee Says It Will Co-operate With Any University Survey.

The Citizens Committee for City-County Co-ordination will co-operate with any university group that may receive a grant to study the problems involved in a merger or co-ordination of St. Louis and St. Louis county, it was announced today.

Speaking to a luncheon of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at Hotel DeSoto, Alderman A. J. Cervantes, co-chairman of the citizens' committee, said his group would work with the university group in the timing of the project, and would not "rush into" filing of the petitions.

St. Louis and Washington universities have applied for a grant to undertake a joint study of the city-county problem. The citizens' committee has been circulating petitions for appointment of a board of freeholders to draw up a plan of merger or co-ordination to present to the voters at a special election.

"We welcome the practical interest of the two universities," Cervantes said. "We are in close touch with them and they have representatives acting in liaison with our committee. When and if they obtain the grant to finance studies in the near future, we will co-ordinate our research with theirs."

"We do not intend to rush in with the petitions as soon as we obtain the minimum number of signatures. We believe, out of our conversations with officials of the universities, that study can be well advanced by them and by us before petitions are presented, so that by the time the freeholders are appointed, organized and functioning, material will be at hand to aid them in their study."

"The studies and their results can be supplied in sections as the freeholders' work progresses."

He Must Decide Next Week Whether to Risk Try for $64,000—Asks to Be Left Alone.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (UPI)—Gino Prato, winner of $32,000 on a television quiz show, secluded himself in his Bronx shoe shop today to begin a weeklong ordeal of deciding whether to risk doubling his fortune or losing it.

The 55-year-old cobbler hummed his way through a four-part query in his category, opera, in his fourth appearance last night on CBS-TV's "64,000 Question."

Next Tuesday night the Italian-born Prato will appear before the TV cameras and announce his decision.

If he decides to continue and answers the questions, he will take home $64,000. If he loses, he will win a Cadillac worth at least $7,000, as a consolation prize. If he feels he should not go on, he will be permitted to keep his $32,000.

Asks for Privacy. Questioned after the show, he appeared tense. "Fine, fine, I feel fine," he said. "And if you please I would like to go home now."

Before leaving he made a good-natured plea for privacy. "You people," he said, "please leave me alone this week or I go batty. And if I go batty, I can't answer the question next week."

Win, lose or quit next week.

SOUTH AFRICAN ENVOY DEFENDS RACE SPLIT

Visitor Here Says 'Do-Gooders' Misunderstand His Nation's Problem.

"Do-gooder" Americans who want the racial problem in South Africa solved "to suit their own moral contentment" were criticized today by Ambassador John Edward Holloway of the Union of South Africa.

He declared in an interview that such critics of his government's policy of strict racial segregation do not understand the problems faced by white South Africans. Some critics are guilty of "moral arrogance," he said.

Asserting that Americans are badly informed about his country, the ambassador said that "50 per cent of newspaper reports about South Africa are wide of the truth and much of the rest is tendentious."

Holloway, who is motoring across the United States with his wife, addressed a private gathering of the trustees of the St. Louis Council on World Affairs today. He was a guest on a council television program last night.

Many Americans, especially in the north, have pre-conceived notions as to how South Africa's racial problem ought to be solved, Holloway said.

He remarked that there has been progress in racial matters in the United States, but said a gradual breakdown of barriers was not contemplated for South Africa.

A large area in the eastern part of the country has been reserved for native settlement and training in self-government, he said. Native Africans may eventually have considerable freedom in this area but will not have equal status in other sections, he went on.

Holloway declared that the official racial policy was necessary. "The whole of our lives and of our children depends on it," he said. "We are an outpost of civilization."

Mr. Callahan, 1372 Granville place, was born in Ireland but lived here most of his life. For 21 of his years as a fireman he drove the old horse-drawn fire engines. Most of his service was with the Twenty-eighth Engine Co., at Vandeventer and Enright avenues.

Surviving are his wife, a daughter, Miss Margaret E. Callahan; a son, the Rev. Jeremiah L. Callahan, of Our Lady of Presentation Catholic Church, Overland; and a sister in Ireland. Funeral services will be conducted by Father Callahan at 10 a.m. Friday at St. Barbara's Church, 1369 Hamilton boulevard. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

MRS. CHARLES LAMMERT SR. FUNERAL TO BE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Lammert, widow of Charles Lammert Sr., a trade union official and former school board member, will be tomorrow at 9 a.m. at Seven Holy Founders Catholic Church, 6737 Rock Hill road, Affton. Burial will follow at Sunset Burial Park.

COMPTON, DANIELS INDORSE SCHOOL BILL

State Committee Heads Also Back State Cigarette Tax Proposal.

Missouri's proposed public school foundation bill to provide increased state aid for schools, which will be submitted to voters at a special election Oct. 4, was endorsed yesterday by chairmen of the Republican and Democratic state committees.

Perry T. Compton of Montgomery City, chairman of the Republican committee, and Wilbur F. Daniels of Fayette, Democratic chairman, also endorsed the proposed 2-cent-a-package state cigarette tax which will be submitted to voters at the same election.

Revenue from the cigarette tax, estimated at $8,000,000 a year, would be used to defray part of the cost of the school foundation program. As provided in the bill passed by the State Legislature, basic state aid to the schools would be increased from $45,000,000 a year to $64,000,000.

"Missouri is at the crossroads from an educational standpoint," Compton said. "Our school system cannot be allowed to stagnate. It is my hope that the voters adopt the foundation program. Although reluctant to see new taxes imposed on the people, I believe the cigarette tax, as proposed, is a much better solution to the problem of providing additional revenue for the program than an increase in the sales tax would be."

"It is imperative," Daniels said, "that some relief be afforded to our teaching personnel and schools in Missouri. Therefore, it is with this in mind that an unqualified endorsement is made of the foundation bill. Whatever taxes are needed to support the program are likewise endorsed."

Musial, Relaxed in Outfield, Believes He'll Hit .325

By ROBERT MORRISON

Cum Laude.

EVEN during the current hot spell, the city's free golf school for youngsters continues to roll and Forest Park Pro Bob Riley says it certainly can be considered a successful promotion.

"You should hear some of the kids' mothers go on about it," he said. "It's almost embarrassing. You'd think we were giving away everything. The starting enrollment last spring numbered about 130 boys and girls. There still are some 80 to 90 continuing, either in taking instruction or playing the nine-hole course."

"About 32 are 'graduates' of the instruction phase and are now playing," Riley said. "But I'm still teaching about 50, including some 28 girls and 22 boys."

"You see, I don't let them start playing until I know they are ready, that they can hit the ball satisfactorily. Of those still in the instruction group, there are some of course, who may never learn well enough."

"In fact it surprises me that some are staying with it. But as long as they want to try, I'm willing to help them and occasionally there are surprises. There was one cute little girl who for a long time didn't seem to have enough muscle to swing a stick. But she stayed with it and a week or so ago, began to do much better."

"There was another who showed real smartness. She was ready to play and I told her to go ahead. But she refused, saying she would stay in the classes and learn all she could before she began to play."

Five, Six, Pick Up Sticks.

RILEY now conducts instruction on Fridays and lets the "graduates" play on Mondays. When ready to play the youngsters are given two new golf balls from a supply donated by the Post-Dispatch. They use golf sticks Riley has provided from his rental sets.

Concerning the limited number of golf sticks donated early this season from outside sources, Riley said they generally had not proved satisfactory. Many were old and worn-out clubs, some woods so old they did not have inserts in the club face.

So instead of trying to rehabilitate any of those old clubs, Riley stored them away in lockers at the Forest Park Club and permitted the students to use rentals from his golf shop stock.

The park professional said that many inquiries from county residents indicated a need for a similar program in that area. The city limited the golf school registrations to city residents.

Vote of Confidence.

FOREST PARK'S golf courses are losing greens in the recent high humidity heat, a condition that is giving many a greens superintendent, even at private or fee courses, a real headache.

But, Verius Mitchell, the park's greens superintendent, has the confidence of the organized golfers who play the municipal course.

"We feel Mitchell is doing a good job," said Jack Langbein of the Forest Park Golf Club. "He has brought about many improvements already and all he needs is time to make this a good golf course."

Mitchell recently told park members of his plans to rebuild some eight greens, beginning immediately. Work already has started at No. 17 in the installation of a temporary green so that the regular green may be dug up.

Greens at holes No. 4, 10, 11, 12 and 13 also are scheduled for a similar operation unless some green on the nine-hole course seems to require priority over any one of those listed.

Mitchell, who came from West Frankfort, Ill., to tackle this tough task, is in his second season here. The guess is that he'll need another two years before he can be expected to show sustained results with the greens. He has built a number of new tees and the fairways are good.

Then, as it always has been in this climate, the problem will be to keep a good green after it is developed. It can be "scalded" or it may wilt.

But whatever happens it's always nice to have a nursery patch handy for replenishment purposes. And Mitchell now is adding that, too, to the park resources.

Charles Is 11-5 Favorite Over Tommy Jackson

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Aug. 3 (UP)—Young Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson will try to blast Ezzard Charles' dream of recapturing the heavyweight crown tonight (The fight will be televised and carried in St. Louis by KTVI (Channel 36) at 9 o'clock).

With six straight victories under his belt, 23-year-old Jackson said confidently: "I'll set such a fast pace, old Ezzard will just have to fold up." Charles is 34.

However, sportsmen apparently did not share the Hurricane's confidence. Charles is favored at 11-5, despite Tommy's youth and higher ranking. The champ was favored because of his experience in 104 fights and because of the punch that knocked out 54.

Gangling Jackson, whose unorthodox style verges at times on the ridiculous, has knocked out 11 of his 26 opponents. He sets a fast pace as he prances about the ring and pursues his opponent with long left jabs and then swarms over him like a bee-swatter at close quarters.

Fifth Loss In Row for Cardinals

By Jack Rice

There is no doubt the Cardinals are dreaming sweetly of the future, because they are sleeping soundly in the present. The body twitches hardly at all. Whether the individual dreams go as far as the 1956 salary season, or just up to the 1955 deer season, is a profound matter generally better left private. Somebody might get indignant and let out a roar that would disturb the whole barracks, or scare home a run.

It's evident there is some tip-toeing being done, though. Stan Musial, his eyes opened wide, checks for him to be able to close them now if he wanted to, has begun his pacing between first base and the outfield. His moves now depend on Wally Moon's development as a first baseman.

This is the eighth year of 14 as a Cardinal that Musial has walked the baby between first base and the outfield. Baby has a label, "for the good of the team," in order that strangers might not think Musial's just a restless type.

Musial's Gypsy Life.

Musial sympathizers, of which it appears there are ample as fans suffer with him in Busch Stadium these nights, believe the gypsy life hurts his hitting.

He sat in front of his locker after last night's 3-0 defeat, the Cardinals' said in succession. Giant left-hander Johnny Antonelli had taken the local cure for visiting pitchers wondering what all this was. Musial said things about playing first base and playing the outfield he could have said in 1946, when he batted .365, as well as he can say them now, at 34.

"In the outfield, playing comes natural," he said. "When I play first base, I can't relax." At this point the curtain drops gently, but the audience is not to write its own finish.

"The team looks tired," said Musial. "It's the playing day-in-day-out, day-in-day-out, without an open day in July and August, when we need some fellows from other teams."

And they say "How do you stand this heat, night after night?"

"Bring Back Doubleheaders," Those trips, that tail-end swing from the east to the west on a train, and get off and play again... I'd go for doubleheaders again on Sunday, and an open day on Monday. This is the time of the year we need that day off."

Musial was talking quietly, but not with an I'm-going-on-35 (pace of fatigue) more years can he do it, efficiently. "Two years, I think," he said. First base, outfield, or commuter.

And in his travels this year, where does he expect to finish as a hitter? Musial grinned, and looked less strained than men about him with fewer years, or maybe it is less security.

"How many games left," he said, "537—oh, I'll hit .325. I've not had those three-for-four, four-for-four games. It's one-for-three, one-for-four, none-for-two."

Last night it was 2-for-4, and no help to the R.B.I. record because they were singles after two were out. But it was two percentage points upward, to .299, and half a point a game will make a rendezvous with .325 and a Musial hunch instead of a hope.

"Hunches," he said, "You've got to play hunches." He had come from right field in the eighth inning, to play first base after highhand hitter Rip Russell batted for left-hand hitter, volunteer novice first baseman Moon.

In the Giants' eighth, with the bases loaded, Musial played a hunch and hedged closer than normal to the plate. He caught the attempted squeeze bunt on the pop-up, and threw to third for an inning-ending double play. He singled in the ninth, just to keep the outfield-first base hitting record even.

At the clubhouse doorway, Manager Harry Walker reviewed the day's inspirations. His intention had been to use Moon at first base as a means of resting Musial occasionally. In the dugout, Moon volunteered the play first base. If that was what was wanted, the offer was accepted, and Musial went to doing what comes naturally, in right field.

"We'll leave Moon in there unless he hurts us too much," said Walker. There are more prospects, meaning at least one, for a major league outfielder in the Cardinal farm system than there are for first basemen, he said. Moon has youth, and speed, and power. "You can't take him out of the lineup, and maybe he'll make it. If not, well, the other fellow ought to have two years left, and..."

His talk of the future hung, hopefully, in a clubhouse that shortly before had echoed a dreamy survey of a defeated present.

Indians Drop Young.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3 (UP)—The Indians yesterday removed infielder Bobby Young from their roster to make room for newly-acquired Pitcher Sal Maglie.

The announcement said that all other major league clubs had waived on Young, who was acquired earlier this season from the Baltimore Orioles. It was expected the veteran infielder would be assigned to a minor league club.

Entrants in the District Junior Girls golf tournament included a variety of ages and sizes. Headed for the starter's table before the qualifying round were 10-year-old JUDY TORLUMKE, the National Peeewe Champion (left), CAROLE LINTZENICH, 15, (center), and 8-year-old MARY MARGARET EVANS. Of the three, Judy was the only one to qualify for championship play. She won her first round match.

Veterans Deliver as White Sox and Yanks Win Important Games

Gain on Red Sox, Indians

BOSTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—A handful of oldtimers, supposed to wilt in the heat, looked like a crop of young rookies as first-place Chicago and runner-up New York gave Boston and Cleveland hotfoot in the sizzling American League race last night.

It was Connie Johnson, 32, and Millard Dixie Howell, 35, both reclaimed from the minors, who supplied the pitching in the White Sox's 2-1 decision over Boston. And at New York, the Yankees nudged Cleveland 2-1 on the pitching of 35-year-old Tommy Byrne, another veteran, and a pair of home runs by Joe Collins, 32.

As a result, the White Sox still have their one-game lead over the Yankees, but Cleveland has fallen two games back and Boston four.

Fifth place Detroit, 7½ games behind, outslugged Washington 13-10, and Baltimore tumbled Kansas City 5-1.

In the National, Brooklyn gave in to a Milwaukee rally, 5-3; Cincinnati whitewashed Philadelphia twice, 2-0 and 4-0; Chicago posted Pittsburgh 12-4, and the Giants beat the Cards 3-0.

None of the White Sox and Yankees stars of last night are old codgers, exactly, but they're well past the flaming youth stage. Johnson had Boston's kids well in check with two out of the ninth, then had to get relief for his fourth victory in five decisions since being brought up from Toronto June 30. He gave a single to Jim Piersall and went 2-0 against the pinch-hitting Faye Throneberry before Morris Martin, another veteran, came on. Throneberry swatted a triple to make it 2-1 and Howell, up from Memphis, went 3-2 against Eddie Joost before getting him on a game-ending fly.

Rivera Belts a Homer. Three singles made for one run in the third off loser Tom Brewer and Jim Rivera belted a homer for the winning margin in the fourth.

Collins, with just two home runs in the last two months, made it 1-1 in the first inning with his first homer of the night. Then he broke up a duel between Byrne and Early Wynn, another 35-year-old guy, with his one-out poke in the tenth. The Indians' run came in on Al Smith's leadoff triple and Bobby Avila's sacrifice fly. From then on, Byrne shut the door, giving just six hits the rest of the way for his tenth victory against two defeats. Wynn, who had counted the Yanks three times in his 13 victories, took his sixth defeat.

Detroit blew an 8-2 lead and then a 10-8 edge at Washington before jumping on reliever Pedro Ramos for three in the ninth. Harvey Kuenn had two doubles and a pair of singles for the Tigers as each club got 17 hits. The joint 23-run slugfest was accomplished without the help of a homer.

Milwaukee tied the Brooks at 3-3 as Ed Mathews swatted his twenty-eighth homer—his second of the game—then got two more in the big eighth inning rally on Don Zimmer's error. Phil Paine one-hit the Dodgers in four relief innings and fanned six for his first major league decision this year. Rookie Roger Craig took his first defeat with the Brooklyn—who now lead by just 1½ games.

Reds Take Two From Phils. Cincinnati paired a four-hitter by John Klippstein and a five-hitter by Joe Nuxhall with the bat work of Gus Bell to sweep the twi-lighter from the Phils. Bell had two R.B.I. singles in the opener and hit two homers in the nightcap.

Ernie Banks matched a major league record with his fourth grand slam home run of the season for the Cubs and added a run producing single to trample the Bucs. Bill Wight, the Tribe castoff, four-hit the A's, who contributed four errors that made all the Orioles runs unearned. Wight gave just one hit over seven innings—Bill Wilson's homer in the fifth.

Scott Frost Wins Hambletonian in Straight Heats

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—Scott Frost won the $86,863.32 Hambletonian today, capturing the second heat by a long head in 2:00 3-5 after taking the first heat in 2:01 3-5.

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—Scott Frost, the favorite, won the first heat of the $86,863.32 Hambletonian today, trotting the mile in 2:01 3-5 as he finished three-quarters of a length in front of Leopold Hanover. Galophone was third in the field of 11 three-year-olds.

With Joe O'Brien of Del Mar, Calif., handling the reins, the favorite from the Shafter (Calif.) stable of Sol Camp fought off several challenges to win much as he pleased.

He paid $2.70, $3.10 and $2.20 in winning. Leopold Hanover, representing Mrs. Charlotte S. De Van of Hanover, Pa., returned $12.60 and $4.30 and Galophone, the second choice owned by William T. Maybury, Dexter, Me., paid $2.60 to show. Butch Hanover was fourth.

Childs Hanover, the third choice, broke at the start and Scott Frost had a length over Wayhead at the quarter and trotted in 29:3-5 seconds. Galophone moved to the front briefly but by the time they reached the half-mile post Scott Frost was in command again with a 1-01 clocking.

Butch Hanover was the next to challenge. He went to the front just before reaching the three-quarter pole but heading into the home stretch, the favorite moved away. Two lengths separated Leopold Hanover and Galophone.

Marciano Ordered To Ease Up Punching

GROSSINGER, N.Y., Aug. 3 (UPI)—Manager Al Weill ordered heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano to go easy on his punching yesterday for fear he might lose too much weight in the intense heat.

"The fight is still six weeks away," Weill said. "By boxing in such intense heat Rocky might lose weight he would be unable to regain."

As a result, Marciano sparred slowly for two rounds against 180-pound Felix Antonio of Dayton, O. Marciano defends his heavyweight crown Sept. 20 against Archie Moore in Yankee Stadium.

In the Ozarks

By Z. Lee Stokely
Ozark Sportsman and Outdoors Writer.

The dove season opens Sept. 1 and extends through Oct. 15. Daily and possession limits are 10 each. The season is 15 days longer than the 1954 season. Two more birds are allowed this year in both take and possession.

Doves will be most plentiful in Missouri when the season opens than they have been in many years. Most young birds are now on the wing and the nesting and rearing period has been extremely favorable. Arkansas, where doves have been reported also indicate an upswing in the dove population.

Flights containing as many as 20 birds have been observed in southern Missouri but during August they will, as a whole, remain in pairs until they form their flights for the migratory journey southward. Dozens of pairs are to be seen, perched on telephone wires along any highway, on a drive of only a few miles. The June census of mountain doves, conducted by the Missouri Conservation Commission, showed an average of 3.67 doves per mile in a check of 103 dove census routes. This is an increase of 35 per cent over the 1954 figure, which was, itself, a new high.

Conservation Commission Biologist Howard Wight said, "The outlook is for another banner hunting season if we get good weather in early September. Missouri's main drawback to good dove hunting is an early cold snap that sends doves southward before much of the state can enjoy a hunt. Continued hot weather during September is the only guarantee of a good hunting season, but there are certainly lots of doves this year."

Some Tarry Hill Winter. Doves in large numbers are found in southern Missouri throughout the late fall months, long after the dove season has closed. It is possible that the birds that were native to this section have moved southward and have been replaced by those that have migrated from the north. Even in late November large flights of doves are seen feeding in the cornfields in the southern portion of the state.

Quail hunters usually consider them a nuisance because they are not legal game when the quail season is open. Bird dogs, especially those that are young and inexperienced, often will potter about and foot-scent the ground where doves have been feeding in the fields and finally flush a flight of doves. The hunters, expecting quail, move on to more promising territory but many more flights of doves are usually seen before the day's hunt ends. Flights of doves are common in the Bootheel section as late as December and even in January.

The mourning dove seems to thrive on civilization. In fact, a large percentage of the nesting birds have "moved to town." In early spring almost any block of a tree-lined street in nearly any town or city will harbor a pair of these nesting birds. A similar number is found in the shade trees near the homesteads of farms. The doves will carry their pair is common for doves which nest in Missouri; as many as four have been recorded, and pairs are sometimes found nesting even after the season opens in early fall. Two eggs are the usual number per nest. Usually in late August the nesting season has ended and the birds leave their urban environs and move to the rural grain fields to form flights preparatory to their late fall migrations.

Increase in Dove Hunting. Dove hunting is rapidly gaining favor in the Ozarks. A score or more years ago only a few dove hunters took to the fields, and most rural areas frowned on the nimrod who hunted these birds. The scarcity of quail in the last few years has been an important factor in the increase of interest in dove hunting. Many quail hunters have disposed of their dogs, and, since

AAA Gives Up Sanction of All Auto Races

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (UPI)—The American Automobile Association has decided to sever all connection with auto racing after this year and withdraw its sanction from all contests including the 500-mile Memorial Day classic at Indianapolis.

This was disclosed today by Col. Arthur Harrington, chairman of the AAA contest board, who said the new policy was adopted by the Association's executive committee. He told a reporter he was notified of the decision last night.

He said the AAA decision to "pull out entirely" from the racing field was prompted by two things:

1. The disastrous accident at Le Mans, France, earlier this year, where a racing car went out of control and killed several spectators. This accident shocked the world and stirred up public opinion against racing.

2. The tendency of juries to give "very excessive damage awards" to persons injured in racing accidents. Harrington said this has made it impossible to obtain "adequate" liability insurance for race sponsors.

Harrington said the A.A.A. would continue for the rest of the current racing season, which ends in November, to sponsor contests and to give ratings points to competing drivers.

There are still several A.A.A.-sponsored 100-mile races on the calendar for this year, he said.

He said he believes auto racing could make "very worthwhile" contributions to the development of better and safer cars.

Terry Fines Three S. Atlantic Players

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 3 (AP)—Bill Terry, South Atlantic League president, fined three players yesterday as a result of a fight in a game at Savannah July 18.

Ralph Holmes, Montgomery pitcher who threw a ball that hit Savannah's 2nd baseman, was fined $25. Giardano and Matt Daskalakis, Montgomery first baseman, were fined $10 each.

dogs are not needed in dove hunting and the dove population has steadily increased during the last four years while quail hunting has decreased. The hunting of doves has found favor.

A bumper wheat crop in Missouri is furnishing much food for these birds and, no doubt, since the shattered grain in the harvested fields is plentiful and the acreage much larger than usual, the doves will carry their young more easily than in years of low crop.

A bountiful crop of weed seeds, due to ample rainfall, will also help to hold the birds longer than usual.

When the season opens, a wheat stubble field, plus a few dead trees and a watering place nearby, is an ideal spot for the congregating of these birds. Their erratic flight makes for sport shooting. They offer one of the trickiest targets to be found. Modestly garbed in their dun-colored plumage, they are inconspicuous against a background of meadow and the fields of corn. They may come in to gun with a slow, measured flight or they may be performing acrobatics in the shifting air currents. Their flight is full of surprises and they will sharpen the shooting eye of the most experienced gunner. They also furnish some of the best eating, when properly prepared, to be found in wild game.

Their flight is full of surprises and they will sharpen the shooting eye of the most experienced gunner. They also furnish some of the best eating, when properly prepared, to be found in wild game.

When the season opens, a wheat stubble field, plus a few dead trees and a watering place nearby, is an ideal spot for the congregating of these birds. Their erratic flight makes for sport shooting. They offer one of the trickiest targets to be found. Modestly garbed in their dun-colored plumage, they are inconspicuous against a background of meadow and the fields of corn. They may come in to gun with a slow, measured flight or they may be performing acrobatics in the shifting air currents. Their flight is full of surprises and they will sharpen the shooting eye of the most experienced gunner. They also furnish some of the best eating, when properly prepared, to be found in wild game.

Aircraft, Which Gave the Signal for Rise, Well
in Front.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP)—The stock market edged ahead today after the aircraft gave it an early push in a flurry of buying.

The initial forward move, however, didn't carry through to the end of the session, and there were many minus signs in the list at the finish.

Gains and losses spread over a range of 3 points either way, but there were more large gains than losers.

Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed up 1 point at 174.0. The industrial stock index was up 2 point and rail index up 4 point while utilities lost 2 point.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 16 of a point higher at 460.98 at 157.13, while the 15 utilities lost .13 at 66.37.

The market was 26 issues narrower than yesterday at 1158 issues. There were 399 higher and 277 lower. There were 45 new 1955 highs and 8 new lows.

Trading started fast and then subsided. It came to an aggregate 2,190,000 shares for the day. Yesterday's sales were 2,260,000 shares.

London stock prices dropped again today, the Financial Times index losing 3 points on top of the 4.1 points lost yesterday. Today's figure was 208.7.

The market opened higher and trading expanded through the second hour. Thereafter, however, the pace slackened and prices lost their pep.

Aircrafts were well out in front of the rest of the market and gave the signal for the initial rise. Most steels, motors, and rails were higher, but chemicals and coppers, the rubbers and airlines didn't do very well.

Electric Auto Lite and Chrysler were features of trading at lower prices. Yesterday Auto Lite was the fourth most active issue up 4 1/2 and Chrysler was fifth up 2 1/2. Today Auto Lite started on 2000 shares off 1 1/2 and then lost another 3 points at times. Chrysler started up 1/2 on 5000 shares and then traded narrowly for a small loss.

Rhodesian Selection Trust, yesterday's most active issue up 1/2 at 6 1/2, started today unchanged on a block of 7000 shares.

Bentley Consolidated Mines early in the session had a terrific flurry of trading that brought out successive blocks of 40,000, 20,000, 11,000 and 30,000 shares unchanged at 1 1/4.

Reynolds Metals, up 3 1/2 yesterday, was strong today following an announcement of a major expansion program.

The stock market yesterday was slightly higher in a mild recovery from the sharp fall of the previous day. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 30 cents at 174.0.

The American Stock Exchange today was a little higher in moderate trading.

Bonds were narrowly higher. United States Government issues over the counter were firm.

BUSINESS WORLD

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP)—A continuing drought helped boost electric power output in the United States last week to an all-time high of 10,727,000 kilowatt-hours, Edison Electric Institute said today. Heavy consumption by air-conditioning and refrigeration equipment was a major factor in sending the nation's electric power production to a new record, industry sources said.

The week's total was 17.4 per cent higher than the 9,139,000 kilowatt hours recorded for the like week of 1954. All major geographic areas used more electricity than a year ago.

For the third time in the past month, brass and bronze ingots made from scrap material have advanced in price. Leading makers announced increases of 1 to 3 cents a pound Wednesday reflecting higher prices that have to be paid for brass alloy and copper scrap metal and the continued scarcity of both scrap and primary metal.

Prices for cotton gray goods remained firm today, but business was quiet. Some buyers were indifferent to higher asking quotations. This situation, however, did not disturb mills, because of their fairly well sold up position for nearby delivery.

Universal Match Co. announced the acquisition of International Tag & Salesbook Co., of Chicago. Universal acquired more than 80 per cent of the International Tag & Salesbook stock and secured options to purchase the remainder in a cash deal which required no additional financing. The transaction is expected to add 25 cents a share net to the Universal stock.

International Tag & Salesbook, founded in 1905, is one of the oldest and principal manufacturers in the United States of factory system and shipping tags, as well as of order books and one-time carbon forms. International Tag is to be operated under its present management as a subsidiary, with Mr. Shennan continuing as president, it was stated.

RED CROSS MAKES URGENT APPEAL FOR BLOOD DONORS

An urgent appeal for blood donors to help alleviate a shortage at the St. Louis Regional Blood Center, due partly to the hot weather, was made today by Whitelaw T. Terry, chairman of the St. Louis chapter of the American Red Cross.

Ninety-three surgery cases in civilian hospitals in the area served by the center had to be postponed so far this week because there was insufficient whole blood for transfusions, Terry said. Besides the 21 civilian hospitals here that obtain their total blood supply from the Red Cross, other hospitals call on the center when their own blood banks are exhausted. The center was unable to fill such an order recently, Terry said.

Referring to the heat which has kept many persons from donating, Terry pointed out that the center is air conditioned and the entire time required for a donation is less than an hour. He urged donors to call for an appointment or visit the center at 3414 Lindell boulevard.

PRISONER SHOT TO DEATH IN RIOT IN TEXAS JAIL

Ten Officers Fire 40 Times to Quell Uprising by 58 Inmates in San Antonio.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 3 (AP)—One prisoner was shot to death and four others injured when 10 officers fired 40 shots to quell a jail riot by 58 prisoners last night.

The outbreak was the Bexar County jail's second riot in a week. The first on July 26 took three hours to break up. Last night's was stopped in 30 minutes.

Sheriff Owen Kilday, a brother of Representative Paul Kilday (Dem., Texas), who he told of Rodolfo Escobedo, 27 years old. Kilday said he shot Escobedo in self defense. Escobedo, the sheriff related, was brandishing a large tray and had refused to put it down. When Escobedo started to throw the tray at him, the officer declared, "I shot him."

Left Hospital Bed. The sheriff left a hospital bed to come to the jail when jailers warned him that a riot threatened. He was wounded a few hours before last week's disturbance when his pistol discharged as he alighted from an automobile.

Kilday joined nine other officers in putting down last night's riot. He said about 40 shots were fired, including paraffin bullets. He said he ordered live ammunition used only after the dummy slugs failed to quell the rioters.

Galvino Beltran, 18, was shot in both legs and Rodolfo Reyes, 33, was shot in the right arm. Two other prisoners were struck by flying objects. The riot, which started about 8:30 p.m., was set off, jailer Bob Beckman said, when prisoners protested against disciplinary action against Johnny Crawford, an habitual criminal serving a life term and described as a leader in last week's riot.

Beckman said unrest grew when he put Crawford in solitary confinement about 7:30 p.m.

Reason for Punishment. The lifer, awaiting transfer to a state prison, was punished because of his protest of the jailer's choice of a man placed in charge of the cell block. The prisoners began clattering their eating utensils and yelling, "We want Miller and Crawford."

Beckman said they referred to Tommy Miller, an A.W.O.L. service man awaiting trial for robbery by assault. Miller, too, was an instigator of last week's riot. Beckman said. Officers stopped it when they promised no retaliation and reporters said officers would take up their complaints with Kilday.

Some of the subdued prisoners complained after last night's fight of what they called police brutality. Kilday said some prisoners were slugged by officers as they filed from the cell block but that he stopped it when he saw it.

Escobedo was serving a 90-day term for theft.

WOMAN ON TRIAL IN ARMY COURT AS HUSBAND'S KILLER

CAMP SENDAI, Japan, Aug. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Romola Abidin pledged not guilty today to the "Cherry Blossom Lane" killing last June 17 of her Army warrant officer husband.

Defense for the Bayside (N. Y.) woman told an Army court-martial on its opening day that it might hear "language of a disgusting barracks-room variety."

Mrs. Abidin, 26 years old, is accused of premeditated murder in the shooting of Robert J. Abidin at their home in Cherry Blossom Lane near Camp Matsumura, United States base in northern Japan. Maximum penalty is death.

The Army said Abidin and his wife had played cards with friends the night before the killing. They went home, quarreled, and about 7 a.m. the next day two shots were heard, the Army said. Abidin died within an hour at a nearby dispensary.

No motive for the killing has been established. Jealousy involving Japanese girls has been alleged.

TERRORISTS BURN DOWN VILLAGE IN SOUTH VIET NAM

SAIGON, Indochina, Aug. 3 (UP)—Terrorists believed to be members of the outlawed Binh Xuyen gang today burned down the refugee village of Phuocly, rendering 10,000 persons homeless.

The marauders set fire to the shacks and shelters and wounded at least 20 of the refugees. The village was attacked by terrorists the night of July 29-30 and some 40 shacks were set fire. Another 87 were burned the next day, causing casualties. Phuocly is in the Bien Hoa region of Viet Nam about 20 miles northeast of Saigon.

SUSPECT ADMITS ROBBING GALT (MO.) BANK OF $2700

TRENTON, Mo., Aug. 3 (UP)—Charges were to be filed here today against a San Antonio (Tex.) man who admitted the $2700 robbery of the Cook and Vencil Bank at Galt, Mo., yesterday.

L. A. Warden, assistant prosecutor of Grundy county, said he would file several charges against the man, Harold George Wood, 45 years old, admitted to state patrolmen that he held up George O. Maxwell, cashier of the bank, at pistol point and then locked him in the vault.

ROK DEMANDS CHINA FREE 20,000 KOREANS

2263 P.O.W.s and 17,504
Civilians Still Held,
Minister Says.

SEOUL, Aug. 3 (AP)—Korea today demanded that Red China immediately free 20,000 Korean prisoners of war and civilians. Acting Foreign Minister Cho Chung Whan said:

"We rejoice with the rest of the free world at the freeing of 11 American flyers, but we must remind our friends and allies that Red China still holds—illegally and inhumanly—2263 Korean prisoners of war and 17,504 civilians who were forcibly removed from this country."

Cho also demanded that Red China withdraw its forces from North Korea and "desist from aggression against the Republic of China."

"Peiping's adherence to these points could lead to just and lasting peace in Asia," the statement said. "Its failure to take this step would prove that Red China does not seek peace, but conquest, and that the Geneva discussions are a trap for the United States and other free nations."

The statement was issued after Cho attended a secret meeting at the Defense Ministry which works out strategy for government announced intentions to recover a Communist occupied area south of the 38th parallel.

FREEING OF RED SEAMEN LINKED TO FLYERS' RELEASE
TAIPEI, Formosa, Aug. 3 (AP)—Some Chinese Nationalist quarters professed to see a link between the repatriation from Formosa of 29 Soviet crewmen of the Soviet Russian tanker Tuapse and the release by Red China of 11 detained American airmen. They said the United States had been pressing for months for the repatriation of the tanker's crewmen and that the subject was raised by Secretary of State Foster Dulles in his visit to Taipei March 3. The repatriates left Formosa July 26. Their tanker, which was seized off Formosa June 23 last year, is still under detention the next 10 years. Clements men, 20 requested and were granted political asylum in Formosa.

EISENHOWER SIGNS FOREIGN AID BILL

Regards Provisions as Authorizations, Also as Limitations.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday signed the $2,765,875,000 foreign aid bill.

In a brief statement, he said: "There are several provisions in the act relating to direct forces support and defense support where particular countries are named as eligible recipients of assistance in specified amounts."

"I regard these provisions as authorizations, and also as limitations on the availability of the amounts specified, rather than as directives. To construe them otherwise would raise substantial constitutional questions."

White House officials gave an example of what the President had in mind. They referred to provisions saying defense support of at least so much shall be available for country X.

They said the President regards that as an authorization to spend up to that amount, but also does not regard it as a mandate to spend anything.

In other words, they said, the President feels the Congress has a right to fix a ceiling but not a floor as to individual nations.

The foreign aid bill carries about $560,000,000 less than the President asked for.

REFORM JEWISH SYNAGOGUE NAMES WOMAN CANTOR

OCEANSIDE, N.Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—A 31-year-old mother, Mrs. Betty Robbins, has been named cantor of the local Reform Jewish synagogue. She is believed to be the first woman ever appointed a cantor, who assists the rabbi by chanting parts of the service.

Herbert Weisberg, president of the 200-family congregation, said a search of Jewish law showed nothing to prohibit the unprecedented appointment.

Mrs. Robbins was born in Greece of Russian parents and later lived in Poland until her family fled from advancing German armies. They escaped to Australia where Mrs. Robbins married an American Air Force man in 1943. The couple now has 4 children.

The new cantor is to sing her first service on Sept. 15, the eve of the Jewish new year.

Weisberg said women have never been considered for the post of cantor in orthodox or conservative congregations but reform temples are self-governing in such matters. Mrs. Robbins was appointed by unanimous vote of the Temple Avodah trustees.

WORLD UNION GROUP URGES ATOMIC AGENCY FOR U.N.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 3 (AP)—The International Confederation of Free Trade Unions yesterday urged the United Nations Atomic Energy Conference to set up an atomic energy agency with equal rights for all members.

This was announced after an ICFTU conference on the peaceful use of atomic energy. Delegates came from the United States, Belgium, Denmark, Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Japan and The Netherlands.

The conference urged that a new U.N. agency be given authority to pool data on the peaceful uses of atomic energy, to co-ordinate facilities for research and the training of atomic energy specialists and to assure world-wide supervision over atomic energy production.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH SENATE THANKS NIXON, KNOWLAND OFFERS TRIBUTE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Vice President Nixon got a vote of thanks from the Senate last night just before adjournment as presiding officer who had been courteous, understanding and generous.

"That is the sentiment of 86 members of this body," acting majority leader Clements (Dem., Kentucky), told Nixon. Nixon also got warm praise from his fellow Californian, Republican leader Knowland.

Nixon left the presiding officer's chair as Clements offered the resolution and sat beside Knowland, who said he took "particular pleasure" in "knowing Dick Nixon as well as any member of this body."

There have been reports about rivalry between the two Californians but there was no evidence of it in Knowland's tribute.

Knowland said he had campaigned for Nixon when he first ran for the House and again when Nixon won his Senate seat, had nominated him for Vice President and administered the oath of office as Vice President.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO PAY TEXAS CITY BLAST VICTIMS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—The House yesterday completed congressional action on legislation authorizing payments to victims of the 1947 Texas City explosion disaster on their survivors. The bill now goes to the President for his signature.

Under the measure the Army will consider claims and direct payments not to exceed $25,000 for deaths, injuries or property damage.

More than 500 persons were killed when explosions followed the outbreak of fire aboard a French ship loaded with ammonium nitrate fertilizer for delivery abroad under the foreign aid program. It was manufactured in Army ordnance plants.

CHILEAN VOLCANO ERUPTING AGAIN; HEAVY PASTURE LOSS

SANTIAGO, Aug. 3 (AP)—Rininahue volcano, one of three craters in south Chile that have been in eruption for a week, burst out violently again yesterday, the government said.

All three volcanoes—Rininahue, Parícuti and Choshuenco—were in Valdivia in the Chilean lake country.

Authorities in Valdivia have estimated that ashes from the eruptions have made 25,000 acres of pasture land unfit for use this season. They said then the three craters were peeing less smoke and ashes but the evacuation of residents from nearby villages was continuing.

EISENHOWER SAYS NO PRESIDENT HAS REACHED 70 IN JOB

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower was quoted by Ohio Republican leaders today as saying that no President has reached his seventieth birthday in the White House and that there is an erosion that takes place in the presidency.

The Ohio group said it got that response to urgings that Mr. Eisenhower, who is 64, run for a second term. The White House callers said, however, they were not discouraged by the remark, and predicted he would run again.

The group, headed by Ohio State Chairman Ray Bliss and including Senator George Bender (Rep.), Ohio, and several House members, called on the President to present a resolution adopted by the Republican state committee June 9 requesting that the President become a candidate for re-election in 1956.

MRS. NINA V. NETCHVOLODOFF FUNERAL SERVICE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Mrs. Nina V. Netchvolodoff, widow of a high-ranking general in the old Imperial Russian Army, will be at 9 a.m. tomorrow at St. Michael Russian Orthodox Church, 1901 Ann avenue, with burial in Mount Hope Cemetery.

Mrs. Netchvolodoff, 91 years old, died yesterday at the home of a son, V. P. Netchvolodoff, 5418 Cabanne avenue, who is the only immediate survivor.

She came to St. Louis from France about 1936, after the death there of her husband, Platon P. Netchvolodoff, who commanded Russian artillery in World War I.

When the Czar abdicated in 1917 at the time of the revolution, Mrs. Netchvolodoff and her husband fled to Turkey, and with funds sent them by their son, who had come earlier to the United States, were able to reach France.

'THIS IS THE LIFE' LUTHERAN SHOW WINS 4 AWARDS

"This is the Life," Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod television show telecast by Post-Dispatch Station KSD-TV Sundays at 9:30 a.m., has received awards in four categories of the annual poll of The Billboard, trade publication of the entertainment industry, it was announced today.

Within its own category as a non-network religious series, the show placed first, receiving three times as many votes as its closest competitor. This year is the second that the show has won in its own class.

In three other classes, two in public service and one in contribution to raising cultural standards of film programming, the show placed fifth. A total of 502 television executives throughout the country participated in the poll, third in an annual series.

Produced in Hollywood and carried by 265 United States stations, the show is the most widely televised in the world and regularly attracts several thousand letters a week, all received here at the church's headquarters building, 210 North Broadway. Executive producer of the show is Melvin F. Schlake, 6747 Itaska street, executive secretary of Lutheran television production.

RED MP DEFECTS TO ALLIES AFTER WATCHING U.N. TROOPS

SEOUL, Aug. 3 (AP)—A North Korean Communist military police sergeant crossed to the Allied side today and asked for political asylum, the United States Eighth Army said.

The Army said Sgt. Yi Kyong Pin declared he wanted to come south after watching both his own Communist army and United Nations forces in the joint demilitarized zone.

The Army statement reported Yi, a veteran of five years in the North Korean army, said he had been thinking of defecting since 1953. He said the "attitude and morale" of the U.N. troops he saw was an important factor.

EISENHOWER URGES MORE REFUGEE SPONSORSHIPS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (UP)—President Eisenhower said yesterday the refugee immigration law which he asked Congress to amend this year is "very restrictive and very awkward to administer."

But, he said, it "basically serves a good purpose" and the Administration is trying to make it work. He urged a group of volunteers who help find sponsorship for incoming refugees to provide all the assistance they can.

The President spoke in the White House rose garden to 44 representatives of the governors' committee for the refugee relief program. He said their work is "absolutely essential" and the "best substitute we have" for a better law.

New Chevrolet Task-Force Trucks

Seven new "high-voltage" high-compression valve-in-head engines!

Here's hour-saving, dollar-saving power for your job... the biggest choice of engines in Chevrolet truck history! And they're the most modern engines in the industry!

You've got it good under the hood with a new Chevrolet Task-Force truck! You get the most modern truck power your dollars can buy—and exactly the right power for your job. With two new V8's and five new sixes to choose from, you can pick the power that does your kind of hauling with low ton-mile costs and hour-saving efficiency.

Shortest stroke V8's in any leading truck!

Both of Chevrolet's new truck V8's have an ultra-short stroke—shortest of any V8 in any leading truck. They're of modern oversquare design, which means that the piston stroke is smaller than the bore. The result is less piston travel per mile... longer engine life. Also, Chevrolet's compact truck V8's deliver exceptionally high horsepower per pound of engine weight. More power is actually available for hauling your loads!

A modern 12-volt electrical system

You get this great development in all new Chevrolet truck engines—both V8's and sixes. The 12-volt electrical system delivers twice the punch for quicker cold-weather starting (up to 30% faster cranking speed). It also provides a hotter, fatter spark for better ignition, and gives you a greater electrical reserve supply.

New, wider choice of transmissions, too!

Here are transmissions to meet every trucking need. You can have new, gas-saving Overdrive as an extra-cost option in 1/2-ton models. Or—in 1/2-, 3/4- and 1-ton models—proved truck Hydra-Matic is available to free you from shifting and save you time in traffic (optional at extra cost). Or you can choose from smooth-acting, quiet-running 3- and 4-speed Synchro-Mesh transmissions.

HARRIMAN LABELS BIG 4 CONFERENCE A DISAPPOINTMENT

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (UP)—Gov. Averell Harriman said today on his return from a tour of Europe and Israel that the recent "summit" conference at Geneva was "disappointing," though he praised President Eisenhower's role.

The Democratic governor said he believed it was of paramount importance that Mr. Eisenhower "conveyed to the world that we are a peaceful nation." He said the President's "sincere statements" at Geneva "undid much of the damage of recent years."

"The damage was done by such statements as those unclear," Mr. Harriman added, "as other war-like and irresponsible statements made by the President and the Republican party."

Harriman landed at New York International airport this morning after 27 days abroad. His wife remained in Paris for a 10-day vacation.

EX-KOREA P.O.W. SAYS LT. ERWIN URGED DEFECTION

FORT LEWIS, Wash., Aug. 3 (UP)—A former prisoner of war testified yesterday that Lt. Jefferson D. Erwin urged fellow P.O.W.s to accept Chinese Communist indoctrination.

"He said we (United States forces) had no business being in Korea," Maj. John Kahanak told the court-martial before which Erwin is charged with collaborating with the enemy while a P.O.W. in North Korea in 1951.

Two other prosecution witnesses, Capt. Roy H. Russell, Twin Falls, Idaho, and Maj. George McDonald, Birmingham, Ala., testified to their knowledge of Erwin's activities in the prisoner camp from January to December 1951.

JOHNSON LEADING IN MISSISSIPPI GOVERNOR RACE

Fielding Wright, J. P. Coleman Close Behind—Runoff to Be Aug. 23.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 3 (UP)—The Mississippi gubernatorial primary developed into a down-to-the-wire race between three front-running candidates today. An Aug. 23 runoff will be necessary to determine the winner.

All the candidates for the state's top office ran on strong pro-segregation platforms in yesterday's Democratic primary. Party officials said Negro ballots at some spots would be challenged.

Paul B. Johnson Jr., son of a late Governor, held a narrow lead and appeared certain of a place in the runoff. Running neck and neck for second place were former Gov. Fielding Wright and Attorney General J. P. Coleman. Jackson Attorney Ross Barnett lagged in fourth place, and Mrs. Mary Cain, Sumner, newspaper editor, bowed out today.

With 1336 of the state's 1826 precincts reporting, Johnson had 65,956, Coleman, 59,132, Wright, 59,784, Barnett, 47,629 and Mrs. Cain 15,281.

The Democratic nomination is equivalent to election in Mississippi. Negroes had no candidate championing their cause but nevertheless voted fairly heavily in some cities. In other localities they were told their votes would be challenged.

State Democratic executive committee chairman Tom Tubb told the 10 or 12 Negroes who registered at West Point, his home, that their votes would be voided on the ground that the Negroes "do not belong to the Mississippi Democratic party."

Negro leaders had urged a big turnout of the 22,104 registered Negro voters. In the all-Negro community of Mound Bayou in the rich Mississippi delta, Mayor Ben Green, himself a Negro, urged voters to ignore a party reminder that their votes would not be counted.

But the warning apparently had an effect, because the voting at Mound Bayou was light. Mrs. Cain received 41 votes, Wright 28, Barnett 18, Johnson 15 and Coleman 4.

Wright, who returned to the Democratic party fold and became a National Committeeman after his 1948 insurgency, was strong in the cities and in parts of the delta region. He was the running mate of then Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina on the States' Rights ticket formed in a Southern party rebellion against former President Truman's civil rights program.

MAN IS SHOT AND WOUNDED FOLLOWING TAVERN QUARREL
Robert A. Evans, of the 1400 block of LaSalle lane, a 19-year-old truck driver, was shot in the right leg, right ankle and right hip early today in the aftermath of an altercation that began in a tavern at Blair avenue and North Market street.

Kenneth Stegall, who said he lived in the 1200 block of Chambers street, a companion of Evans, told police Evans had quarreled with two men in the tavern on the northwest corner of the intersection. Later Evans and Stegall left the tavern, crossing to the northeast corner. As they stood there, Stegall said, they were accosted by three men riding past in an automobile. Two of them were the ones with whom Evans had quarreled in the tavern. There was a further exchange of words and the driver of the automobile fired several shots at Evans, striking him three times. Police were searching for the assailant.

KARSTEN ON HOUSE INQUIRY INTO NARCOTICS ADDICTION
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—Representative Frank M. Karsten (Dem.), St. Louis, has been appointed to a subcommittee which will investigate narcotics addiction. It was announced today.

The seven-man group is a subcommittee of the Ways and Means Committee, of which Karsten is a member. Representative Hale Boggs (Dem.), Louisiana, is chairman.

2 BOATS RACING TO ST. LOUIS FROM NEW ORLEANS

Operators of two boats from Little Rock, Ark., left New Orleans this morning for St. Louis in an effort to break the 56-hour record for the 1,050-mile run up the Mississippi river established last year by Lee Sawyer, 4554 Red Bud avenue.

One of the boats, owned and operated by Raymond and Alexian Loetscher brothers, got away from New Orleans at 5:07 a.m. Their 26-foot craft, equipped with three separate motors and propellers, is capable of going 45 miles an hour. The Loetschers built the boat themselves.

The second boat, which left New Orleans at 5:33 a.m., is Quintin H. DeClerk, whose 17-foot boat, the "Gracie May," is powered by one 200-horsepower motor.

G.M. NOTIFYING NON-UNION WORKERS TO JOIN CIO-UAW

DETROIT, Aug. 3 (AP)—General Motors Corp. has begun notifying some 18,000 non-union production workers they must join the CIO United Auto Workers by Aug. 26 or run the risk of being fired.

A new three-year contract recently signed by G.M. and the UAW provides for a union shop. In a union shop the employer may hire non-union workers but they must join the union in a specified time, which, in the case of G.M. is 90 days.

G.M. employees are exempted in 18 states with so-called "right to work" laws barring closed or union shops. The UAW grants exemptions for persons whose religious beliefs prevent them joining.

G.M. estimated that only 5 per cent of its more than 350,000 production workers were not UAW members before the signing of the union shop contract.

EDUCATIONAL DRIVE URGED TO REDUCE TRUCK NOISES

A recommendation that an educational campaign be undertaken to help reduce excessive truck noises and eliminate other causes of widespread complaints against the trucking industry was made yesterday at a meeting of a truck traffic committee at Hotel Sheraton.

It was suggested that truck drivers be urged to use bypass highways rather than routes through the city, that signs be posted at weight stations warning drivers about excessive noise and that trucks be dispatched in non-rush hours.

Three committees were appointed to make further studies into organizing such a campaign and to determine what methods to use to reach all industries in the area using trucks. The committees will report at a meeting next Tuesday at the Sheraton.

COOLING STREAM

Water trickling off to gutter has all the virtues of a cooling stream in the country as Don Rodcay of the Fire Department's Engine Company No. 1 eases his feet after emerging from burning building at Pennsylvania avenue and West Kraus street yesterday. The blaze, in warehouse of the National Cover & Manufacturing Co., swept through a stock of plastic materials and the combination of fumes and intense heat made it a rough afternoon for firemen. Damage was estimated at more than $200,000.

Two-lane stem of highway cutting under Twelfth street and looping to Gravois will carry traffic off the interregional road; in-bound traffic will travel on spur cutting off near Twelfth-Gravois intersection. Work is scheduled for completion in the fall. At left center, framework is almost complete for buildings in the first phase of the Joseph M. ## What Do Men Really Think About Women?

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP).

CURBSTONE reflections on women by a pavement Plato:

The biggest mistake a woman can make is to try always to be utterly charming or perfectly beautiful. . . . Men may claim they admire perfection, but if they do it is only in heaven. . . . On earth it frightens them.

HAL BOYLE

A wise woman will follow the example of the old Chinese rug-makers who traditionally wove a slight imperfection into their colorful carpet patterns to show their realized perfection is for gods, not mankind. . . . A woman who is always coldly and divinely beautiful pays a penalty. . . . Men yield her the same esteem they do a classic statue, but they don't marry statues. . . . They marry girls with freckles and warts.

MOST MEN TODAY realize women are stronger than they are, yet in their hearts they pity women. . . . They don't feel women actually get as much real fun out of living as they do. . . . Motherhood isn't the worst ordeal of womanhood. . . . To a man the thing he would hate most if he were a woman would be the necessity of having to look at his own face in the mirror so many times a day. . . . How do women stand it?

Any man who won't admit he is secretly more attracted by a beautiful redhead than by a blonde or brunette is either a liar—or else married to a redhead. . . . Any career woman who brags she never depends on sex appeal to help her get ahead probably doesn't have enough to depend on anyway.

WOMEN ARE least physically attractive when they are most dressed up. . . . Office girls are most feminine when they come to work in a long tight skirt and a loose white blouse (as every boss knows). . . . But a tousled touch helps romance. . . . That's why more men propose marriage on picnics than in crowded ballrooms.

Proper facial expression is an aspect of beauty most women overlook. . . . The chilly mask-like stare affected in public by so many otherwise smart-looking women has often been commented on by foreign visitors, and it is indeed an American tragedy. . . . for it reflects not poise, as these women fondly believe, but inward uncertainty. . . . Few things really please a man more than seeing a woman every now and then break out with an honest belly laugh. . . . He loves her on sight. . . . But he won't love her very long if she laughs that way every other moment. . . . It's her change of pace that gets him.

THE WOMAN WHO ANNOYS MEN MOST is one who never will do her fair share of pushing in a revolving door. . . . But the most frustrating thing to a man is to court a girl who isn't ticklish.

It isn't true that men are afraid to marry intelligent women. . . . They merely dislike intelligent women who are unintelligent enough to say sarcastic things about a man's faults. . . . Men secretly despise sarcasm in a woman more than they do untidiness in her.

No man is truly afraid of any woman unless she kills a trapped mouse in his presence. For some reason this so frightens him that, unless he has long been married to her, he will pack his bag and run away from home at once and never, never come back.

Ineffective Method

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

MOST wives are naggers because they don't know how else to persuade their husbands to do something. In many cases, they could achieve better and quicker results by doing it themselves. At any rate, it's an ineffective method and often leads to serious trouble.

There are, however, numerous ways in which skillful wives get results, and I shall call attention to some of them from time to time in this column. One of them might suit you.

FOR EXAMPLE, instead of making a direct demand for action, offer your husband an alternative. You want to go to the movies. "You have talked about our needing a change," you remind him. "Tomorrow would be a good night for both of us. Would you rather go to the movies or to a dance?"

Another method is to take something for granted. "You'll just have time to shave before dinner." He had really not planned on shaving but knows he needs it, and this may start him. "If you're not ready to take your bath yet, I'll take mine first." He hadn't known that he was going to take a bath, but he knows now.

A THIRD STANDARD TECHNIQUE is to credit him with your ideas. "I've been thinking a lot about what you said one day, that we need more color in this room. I got a sample of some material when I was downtown today. Is this about what you had in mind for draperies?"

Everyone is familiar with such techniques as these three but many a wife does not use them even when she could, because she is so intent on hammering her point home directly. Maybe she has simply formed the "hammer" habit.

Etiquette Questions

By Amy Vanderbilt

MANY readers ask whether, in addressing wedding or other formal invitations, the addresser should remove the tissues that sometimes have been inserted on the large-size invitations. The answer is that they should not, that the invitations should go out with the tissues in place. Stationers usually insert these tissues when a type of engraving is used that retains the ink a long time and as a precaution against smudging.

DEAR MISS VANDERBILT:

I'm planning to attend a wedding in the Roman Catholic Church. I am writing to ask what would be the proper procedure—to remain seated during the service or to participate in the kneeling and standing. I am not a Catholic but I am familiar with the services.—Mrs. H.S., Dayton, Ohio.

As I have said, the stranger stands or sits with the congregation. If in your own church you kneel in worship, you also would kneel here. If in your own belief there is no kneeling in worship then you would sit and bow your head when the others are kneeling.

Basic Themes for a College Wardrobe

By Sylvia Stiles

ESSENTIALS of a college wardrobe chosen with consideration of the latest fashion trends include the costume suit to be worn for many different occasions, a slim tailored dress, at least one jumper, a "date" dress that is full-skirted and elegantly designed, and plenty of blouses, sweaters and skirts. Since the new season is certain to be colorful, bright red is a flattering shade to feature as a contrast for charcoal gray, beige and black.

Illustrated are some of the basic but very fashionable themes that will contribute to a distinctive wardrobe. All are available in the St. Louis stores at prices which are within the college girls' budget.

1—If you want an all-purpose ensemble that will make you a standout in any crowd, consider this red felt coat with its matching skirt. The coat is unlined but is sufficiently warm for winter wear because of the material of which it is made. Black leather straps serve instead of buttons, not only on the front of the coat but to fasten the cuffs of the full sleeves. There are cleverly designed little black leather money pockets on the large patch pockets of the felt. The skirt has a slight swing at the hemline and has a shaped belt to give a high-waisted effect. There is a key chain fastened at the belt. Black leather accents repeat the coat decoration.

2—French flannel in the popular camel shade is used for this versatile suit which has a barrel shaped cardigan jacket and slim skirt with pleat at the back. The neckline of the jacket fits high at the back and sides. This suit may be worn with matching sweater or wool jersey blouse for campus, or dressed up with a festive blouse for a "Sunday best" ensemble.

3—Corduroy is one of the smartest fabrics for college clothes as well as being one of the most practical. Sketched is an attractive three-piece suit with parts that will mix or match with many other parts in the wardrobe. The jacket is of beige colored corduroy, is double-breasted and collarless to permit the neckline of the white satin blouse to show. The skirt is made of charcoal gray flannel. The blouse has long sleeves gathered into deep cuffs. The coat is lined with the blouse fabric.

4—To prove that not all jumpers look alike, here is a long-waisted model made of black flannel. There is a saw-tooth edging at the hipline, around the neckline and sleeves. The blouse is of Austrian cotton in a black and white crossed-barred pattern.

5—The "shift" dress with its slim lines and low-placed back belt is a "must" in the wardrobe. This one is of sheer flannel in charcoal shade. Cut without a break at the waistline but fitted closely to the figure, the dress gives a long, slim line to the figure. The belt at the back is draped to drop in a crescent shape. Collar is of white linen and neckline bow is of black taffeta.

6—For those many college festivities when a handsome street length dress is desired, black velvet always seems to look especially pretty. The dress sketched may be chosen in camel or red tone if a color is preferred. Long-waisted bodice is attached to a skirt gathered very full and having its own crinoline petticoat. ## The Need for Regeneration in America

By Fulton J. Sheen

Fulton J. Sheen

ACH age of our country is a continuation of the preceding age, but a continuation can be a confirmation of what has happened, or it can be a regeneration to what is better. Since no one wants a continuation of an age that has produced two World Wars in 21 years, and a threat of a third, which may bring harm to the planet itself, it behooves America to avert crisis by regenerating at least three important functions of our national life.

First, the press and agencies of entertainment will seek to preserve the moral tone of a nation. Negatively, they will do this by not allowing publicity to become equated with obscenity, nor by regarding the immoral as news, or the indecent as entertainment.

Taciturnity about the indecent is a safer rule for preserving our youth and our homes than an unbridled shamelessness which believes that the best news is that which is based on the infraction of one or the other of the Ten Commandments. Freedom of the press is best preserved when freedom means not the enjoyment of the forbidden, but rather the service of Truth and Goodness. It is the "Truth that makes us free" and it is Morality and the Good Life which prevents a people from becoming a slave to their baser passions, thus preparing the way for a slavery to the Totalitarian State.

THOUGH JUVENILE DELINQUENCY has increased with literacy and the availability of education, it would be wrong to say that lawlessness of youth is due to education. Rather, it is due to the incompleteness of education, which often trains only the mind, to the utter neglect of the will, substituting utility for truth, and techniques for goals and purposes. The delinquency sometimes found in youth is not due to the inherent wickedness of youth, but rather to a justifiable revolt of youth against the failure of its educators, parents and civilization to equip it with a philosophy of life that has meaning and purpose.

Youth must be trained to self-expression, but since man is not an animal, but a thinking and loving creature, it follows that he must be expressive according to the highest part of his being and not the lowest. The loss of a sense of responsibility through the neglect of character training does not lead to a state of belligerency towards everything that is non-self. The best educators recognize that character is developed by saying "no" to a certain amount of self-indulgence.

Another requisite is a reaffirmation of the fact of personal evil. The present tendency in our civilization is to transfer evil from conscience to the social order. The denial of personal responsibility has made the human person no longer a subject of his own acts, but only an object upon which the political, social and biological environment acts.

THIS DENIAL of personal guilt, by attributing juvenile delinquency to social background, psychoses to grandparents, and Communism to economic conditions, is to forget that nothing ever happens in the world that does not first happen in the heart of man. Even world wars are nothing else but a projection on a macrocosmic scale of the conflicts and civil wars already going on in the microcosmic realm of individual hearts who have forgotten their God.

When a civilization loses a sense of obligation, it becomes powerless to decide on the cause of anything, and as a result its affirmations become weaker and weaker. The denial of sin is the denial of personal freedom. If there is no personal guilt, there is no liberty. How, then, do we differ from totalitarianism which says that man is economically determined? If the faults and the evil decision which create our world confusion are not due to our decisions, but to external circumstances, then we are powerless to correct them; if, however, they are due to ourselves, then we can correct them. The condition which produces crises will continue until we admit we are in a truly tragic situation, or, in other words, until we learn to distinguish between good and evil.

THE ULTIMATE remedy against the judgment of barbarians on civilization has to do with repentance. It was the burden of Our Lord's first preaching and the subject of Peter's first discourse. Repentance involves a recognition of responsibility. The horrors that have arisen in contemporary civilization arise from the Titanic, Promethean sin that man considers himself as an end in himself, and that humanity has no other purpose than its own glory and power. Self-will, to the utter disregard of God, the moral law, neighbor and human rights, is the source of madness which is devastating large areas of the earth.

Try and Stop Me

MR. GORDON was dreaming of a play with two characters and one set that would run for 8000 consecutive performances. His plane was making a routine flight from New York to Chicago. Suddenly he looked up to see a parachutist drift past his window. "Care to join me?" hollered the parachutist.

"Think I'm nuts?" responded Mr. Gordon. "I'm staying right here."

"Have it your way," conceded the parachutist. "I'm your pilot."

Postcard Foxy Story

By Stan Delaplano

STAN DELAPLANE

TIME was when I was well known as the last survivor of Custer's Last Stand. Indians feared me like poison and wolves came around to me to get wisdom. I must report that this situation has changed as my audience grew to 11 years going on 12. The new skepticism of my offspring and her snooty friends is sometimes hard to bear.

"Ho, ho, you are not personally acquainted with Marilyn Monroe!"

"I am so!"

"Prove it!"

"OK," I said. I am cunning as a fox.

In my foxy pocket I have a letter from Gene Autry. I received this letter the other day: "Dear Stan: I address you as Stan because I have read your articles and feel I know you personally..."

Autry then went on to say thank you for writing a column about him one day. "I hope when you are here in town you will give me a call at my office..."

Now an ordinary man would be satisfied to wave this in front of these know-it-all kids. But I am clever as a coyote and wise as a weasel. Before I brought this letter home, I slipped it in my typewriter and wrote an afterthought on the bottom:

"P.S. I am making a picture with your friend Marilyn Monroe and would like to have you act in it."

WELL, I MUST SAY it is heartening to find that the old Pathfinder has a few tricks left in his possible sack. You could knock these kids' eyes off with a stick.

"Gene Autry! Marilyn Monroe! Are you going to be an actor?"

"Well," I said carelessly, "I may and I may not. For old Gene and I are just like that, you know. I reckon he wants me to kiss Miss Marilyn."

"Kiss her?"

"Certainly," I said. "For old Gene can only kiss his horse. This being the way of Western stars. They cannot hang the old smacker on the ladies in their films. They can only kiss Old Paint."

"I have often looked at Gene's kissin' his horse," I said, "and realized that he earned his money. For I have kissed a couple of horses myself and find they taste rather horsey."

"And you'd kiss Marilyn Monroe?"

"That would be my job," I said. "For somebody must kiss the heroine and Gene is tied up with a horse. I would kiss her for half price. That is, half of what I would charge for kissing a horse."

"I don't believe it," she said. "You're making things up again."

"Look at the letter," I said simply. "Read what the man says."

That stops them. I am a BIG man on my block.

OH, I AM WISE as a wolf and the grizzlies point me out to their cubs when I walk by.

"There goes a cool cat," they say.

"How did Gene Autry choose you?"

"It is all there in the letter. Likewise he probably knows my reputation. For fighting Indians. Men Indians. Lady Indians I used to kiss once in awhile. I expect Miss Monroe will play a lady Indian and I shall be forced to kiss her while Gene is off smooching his horse."

"We have to do all kinds of things in the movies."

"You'll be a star!"

"Naturally," I said, buffing my nails on my coonskin coat. "And you may come and visit me in my big Hollywood home and swim in my big swimming pool. You may bring your little skeptical friends and get my autograph if I am in a good mood."

I TELL YOU this has absolutely frustrated the young ladies on my block. They are afraid to say boo to me. It might be true, you know.

"And I will never, never give my autographed picture to kids who say, 'Oh, yeah' and 'I'll bet' and such remarks. And now, if you children care to sit a spell, I will tell you how I outwitted Chief Crazy Horse at the Little Big Horn."

"Yes, sir," they said. Oh, I am cunning as a cougar. Busy as a beaver. The Old Trapper rides again.

Mischievous Impulse

By Angelo Patri

THE ways of a child are often unaccountable. Mothers are dismayed every once in a while by some action or attitude of a child usually well behaved. Before deciding on "doing something," be sure to take time to study the whole situation to discover why he did the wrong thing. Was it done on an impulse or did he plan it?

It was a beautiful spring morning. The sky was a madonna blue and her white sheep were riding across it in fleecy masses. The soft South wind ruffled the bloom laden branches of the flowering cherry in the neighbor's garden. Timmy leaped the hedge, jumped high, tore off a little branch, raced back and leaped the hedge again wearing his trophy.

WHEN HE LEAPED THE HEDGE, he tore the lawn; when he broke off the spray of bloom, he marred the tree. The neighbor was furious and asked for his head.

Tookie was another sort of lad. He noticed that the greengrocer locked his shop every day at 1 o'clock, leaving his trays of fruit and vegetables as they were. One Saturday, he watched until he saw him lock up and go around the corner to the diner.

Prepared with a large stout paper bag, Tookie filled it to the top with whatever filled his eye and raced to the lot where the gang was playing catch. "O-o-gee-where did you get it?" "Over at Pete's." "Did he give it to you?" "Like fun. I snatched it when he went to lunch." A couple of others thought that a fine idea and scampered off to loot the stand but Pete came back in time to catch them.

TIMMY ACTED ON IMPULSE. Tookie, on plan. We can discipline Timmy easily. He goes back to that garden, explains his action, does his best to repair the lawn and begs forgiveness. We can expect him to be a friend to that garden hereafter.

But Tookie? We are not so sure. His background must be examined carefully, his quality of mind tested, a physical and mental examination made by a professional before we decide what to do with him. He used his directed intelligence for a wrong purpose. That is serious.

The impulsive child can be helped to control his impulses. The one who plans to do wrong and carries his idea through, needs skilled professional study before any decision is made concerning his guidance. This is imperative.

A Party for Johnny and His Pals

Group That Doesn't Forget Children in City Hospital Helps Boy Celebrate Birthday

By Clarissa Start

IT'S no fun being in the hospital in the summer time when the other kids are out playing ball and certainly no fun to celebrate your tenth birthday there. It makes it a little better, though, when a group of volunteers and nurses show up with ice cream, cake, paper hats, phonograph records, and presents. Or so we gathered from Johnny Beckmeyer's madcap party at City Hospital recently.

Johnny is one of the many children who've been the recipients of birthday parties given by volunteer women from the Board of Religious Organizations which maintains a regular year-round program in the children's wards at City Hospital. According to Sarah M. Barnes, chief of the occupational therapy division of the hospital, with whom they work, the B.R.O. volunteers serve a real purpose "by bringing warmth into the children's lives." According to recruitment chairman Mrs. John Stodieck, their chore really isn't work because "it's such a rewarding experience."

The B.R.O. made up of 131 churches, of 10 denominations, started its work at City Hospital in June, 1953, when the children's ward was being used as temporary quarters for neglected and abandoned children. Mrs. John H. Sutherland, B.R.O. president at that time, and Mrs. Robert Schnur, executive secretary, visited the hospital as a result of board discussions of the situation, and a program was instituted.

The following year Mrs. E. G. Brungard, director of public welfare, requested a study which resulted in a program of subsidized foster homes for these "boarders" as they had come to be known at the hospital. But even after this critical condition had been alleviated, Dr. W. E. Hennerich, hospital commissioner, and Dr. Milan Mikovuch, superintendent, requested that the project be continued for regular patients. In addition to the City Hospital project, several others are being carried on by volunteers at St. Louis State Hospital, St. Louis Chronic Hospital and Koch Hospital, all under Mrs. Louis Stodieck, B.R.O. chairman for institution services.

things about the volunteer project among children at City Hospital has been its consistency. Twenty-seven women recruited by Mrs. Stodieck, have divided their time to provide services five days a week, two each morning and two each afternoon. From June, 1954, to June, 1955, these 27 contributed a total of 1081 hours, even during the intense heat of the 1954 summer, they stayed on the job. Two women, Mrs. Frank Wilhams and Mrs. Conrad G. Mueller have never been absent during 18 months of volunteer work.

WHEN the weather permits, the volunteers take children who are able to go out to the playground. They also read stories, play games, do handicraft projects, provide music. Mrs. Arthur Ernst shows movies, provided by the Volunteer Film Service every Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Ernst, we are told, usually arrives for this duty early so she can help out on the difficult and tedious task of feeding the ward of mentally retarded babies.

Various needs of the children have been met by B.R.O. membership groups. One group purchased material and made 14 pairs of pajamas and provided bed socks. Toys are provided by the B.R.O. Toy Shop and by Edward McDonald the Sherman Park One Man Santa.

The birthday parties, of course, furnish the most fun. Miss Barnes estimates that there are two or three such parties a month. On the day we were invited, 21 children were able to attend.

The birthday child was Johnny Beckmeyer, who lives at 2027 South Third street, and had cut his neck when he fell while walking a fence rail. Johnny's neck was firmly bandaged but otherwise he appeared to be in good health and spirits. Among the other children gathered in the playroom, some wore bandages, some casts, some were in wheel chairs, one was badly burned, some pale and listless, and some showed heartbreaking signs of malnutrition. Seven of them were brothers and sisters. Their parents, we were told, had sent them by taxi to a non-existent address; when the cab driver took them back, the parents were gone.

ALl of them, the chronically ill and the convalescent, the frail and the seemingly robust brightened at the sight of Miss Barnes and the nurses, Mrs. Stodieck, Mrs. Ernst, and another volunteer, Mrs. Eugene Wilson. The hubbub began as Mrs. Barnes, who had been sent by taxi to a non-existent address; when the cab driver took them back, the parents were gone.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

...in August? Sounds like I've lost my calendar—but I'm really thinking about last New Year, not the coming one. How many of those resolutions you made have long since fallen by the wayside?

Resolutions about money management, for example. Imagine how many people resolved last January 1 to budget more carefully, add to savings, straighten out estate matters, or do any of a dozen other important jobs. Most of these fine resolutions were forgotten by February.

Yet these promises to ourselves are really easy to keep, thanks to the many different services provided by modern banks. Such services as budget counseling, Save-for-a-Purpose plans, expert trust advice, do much to simplify your money management. And an orderly routine of record-keeping at home—perhaps just an entry book and manila file folders—will help you avoid mix-ups, as well as serve as a constant reminder of details to be looked after.

Right now, why not make up your mind to rescue those resolutions from your mental wastebasket. You'll find it can make a big difference before January 1, 1956 arrives.

Fix It Yourself

By Hubbard Cobb

THERE are some leaky basements that are almost impossible to cure and some which are just as difficult to cure but there are a lot that can be cured just with a little common sense. The common sense involved in these cases is that if there isn't any water around the basement wall, it can get into the basement no matter how leaky the walls might be.

An example of uncommon sense is the leader or downspout from a gutter which discharges all the water the gutter collects right into the ground next to the basement wall. It doesn't take an expert to figure that if there is an opening in the wall at one point or another, some of this water will find it. The cure here is easy—just run a line from the end of the leader or downspout to carry the water away from the house. Carry it as far as is practical.

Another thing that produces leaky basements is improper grading around the house. If there are low spots in the ground close to the basement walls, water will drain off the adjoining ground into this low spot and then seep down around the wall. The cure here is to grade around the house so that the earth slopes down and away from the wall at all points. And, of course, be sure that there are no low points.

Lots of homes have concrete walks that run along the side of the house. Many of these have settled so that they are pitched towards the basement wall. When it rains these walks work just like an apron and direct a concentrated stream of water to the small strip of soil between the walk and the basement wall. These walks should be pitched so that they deflect the water away from the house and the joint between the walk and the basement wall should be filled with a waterproof compound—tar or caulking compound.

Contract Bridge

CRITICISM based on the condition that happens to exist, taking no account of a different condition which would be just as thoroughly in keeping with the bidding, is obviously unfair.

Here's a case in point: South, dealer. Both sides vulnerable. North-South 20 on score.

South West North East
1♣ Pass 2♣ Double
Pass 2♣ 3♣
Pass Pass 3N.T. Double
Pass Pass 4♣ Pass
Pass Double Pass Pass

North's 20 part-score seems to have made him bid rather eccentrically, but let's forget that and get to our theme.

West decided that a trump lead was as safe and constructive as any. South won and led a second trump, and East discarded the deuce of spades. South then led the spade queen, and West covered. The ace won, and South cashed the jack and ten of spades, getting rid of a club from dummy. After that South simply gave up two heart tricks and one club. (Of course he led toward the club king.)

East exploded. "How could you cover that spade queen, with only the ace and one in dummy?" he demanded of his partner. "Didn't you see my deuce of spades? That told you I had nothing in the suit."

"Oh, is that so?" West responded. "Now that's a new one! I was under the impression that your deuce simply told me not to lead a spade at any time. So you now maintain that it denied as good a card as the jack—is that your position? Well, that's just dandy! Let's do some bidding. Suppose your hand had been:

♠ J10xxx
♥ AJ109

♣ Axx

"What would you have discarded on the second diamond, if not the spade deuce?"

East grudgingly admitted that he might have thrown the spade deuce from this holding. "And how would you like it if I didn't cover South's spade queen, if this had been the situation?" asked West. East had no answer for that.

Guests in Charlevoix For Golf Tournament

By a Special Correspondent

CHARLEVOIX, Mich., Aug. 3.

THE Gal-Cutta Golf Tournament, scheduled for tomorrow at the Belvedere Golf Club in Charlevoix, promises to be "bigger, better, more frustrating than ever" this year. St. Louisans are arriving in large numbers to participate in this now widely known competition. Tonight a large dinner party will be given to auction off teams paired by drawings. Last weekend Mr. and Mrs. William Cotter arrived to occupy the cottage they have rented for August. Mrs. Cotter's son, Martin Ludington, is working in New York this summer and hence will not be able to join his family. Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson Carpenter Jr. and their children and Edward J. Costigan and his family plan to spend the month of August in rented cottages. Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Thompson II, their son, William, and daughter, Joyce, have also arrived. ## Important thought to keep in mind:

When it's safe to pass, make sure you've got the gasoline that lets you enjoy full working octane performance. Stop in at your Gulf station and ask the man for New Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX. And make sure your engine is protected with New Gulfpride H.D. Select, the motor oil that controls carbon.

New Gulf No-Nox Gasoline delivers not just the highest octane but full working octane... because it's super-refined to burn clean

NO GASOLINE, no matter how high the octane, will let your engine deliver full power performance—mile after mile—unless it burns clean.

That's why it pays to always use new Gulf NO-NOX. NO-NOX is the clean-burning fuel that gives you full working octane day in, day out. In addition, you get...

- more complete engine protection
- extra gas mileage in short-trip, stop-and-go driving
- freedom from vapor-lock, engine stumbling and stalling
- no knock, no pre-ignition—even in today's high-compression engines

See what a difference Gulf super-refining makes. Gulf refines out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—the No. 1 problem in today's high-compression engines; takes it out at the refinery in making new clean-burning NO-NOX.

Now! For the ultimate in working octane performance always use Gulf's super-refined gas-oil team...

New Gulf No-Nox Gasoline and

New Gulfpride H.D. Select Motor Oil

The only motor oil super-refined by the Alchlor Process for modern high-compression engines.

- Controls carbon
- Combats corrosive acids, rust and deposits
- Assures lower oil consumption
- Provides the toughest protective film ever developed in a motor oil

Available in 3 grades—SAE 10W, SAE 20/20W, SAE 30.

Martha Carr's

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF. OPINION

Dear Martha:

I AM 31 years old, married, with two daughters. I am crazy about my wife and children but it seems that we fight all the time. We've separated about a dozen times since we married but then after a few days I call her up and she always comes back and brings the kids. This time though I started drinking and when I got home we had an awful fight and I hit her. She didn't say a word but just turned around and took the girls and walked out. That's been three weeks now and she won't even talk to me on the telephone. She's at her folks' house and they won't talk to me either. I love my wife, Martha, and they're keeping her from me. If they wouldn't interfere we could straighten this out ourselves.

ROY.

You've had a dozen chances to make something of your marriage other than a constant quarrel. But each time you've acted like a couple of juveniles and separated. Then you really went back to your kindergarten days and hit her. How in the world can you expect her to come running back, and why blame all this on her folks? Maybe they're pretty sick of seeing their daughter and grandchildren come trudging back home because two people who are supposed to be adults couldn't have a difference of opinion without splitting up their home. What do you think this does to the children? It's time you were doing some pretty deep thinking, Roy, and your wife, too. I hope, for the children's sakes, that she will try again and that you will both determine to make a decent home for them. My only suggestion is to keep calling and writing. If her folks realize that you are anxious to work hard and to maintain a happy home for her and the children, they'll probably give you their blessing. But you may have thrown away your last chance.

Dear Martha:

I WOULD LIKE to put in my two cents' worth about the mother who wrote you who thinks no one is as good as she is. I married into a family like that. I wasn't good enough for her son, she thought. We owned our home. She rented her house. We had better furniture than she did. But we didn't act like millionaires. We were just plain people. She didn't have anything but a big head and we were decent and respectable. To her, it is money that counts. I should do a man's work so her son won't have to do it. But her daughter shouldn't do certain tasks around the house because it is too menial work for her. In this case, if you want to know what kind of hearts the boy's mother and fiancée have, I am sure the girl friend would come out on top.

Dear Martha:

I HAVE A BOY FRIEND in the Navy and we are practically going steady. He writes me quite often and my mother insists on reading the letters. Lately, I have been telling my mother he hasn't been writing but I feel guilty about this. Do I have to show my mother these letters?

PUZZLED.

This is a personal matter which no outsider has the right to decide for you, but remember there are two sides to it. You feel it is wrong for her to read your mail—and I would say, generally speaking—that the letters addressed to one individual should be read by no one else without his permission. On the other hand, she has a right to object if you're receiving the kind of letters that you would be embarrassed for someone else to read.

Go on a Trip

By Ruth Millett

"I DON'T think we'll take a vacation trip this year. It's kind of foolish to spend a lot of money taking a trip, when we have a nice home we could enjoy. And, besides, there's so much that needs to be done around the house and yard. If Jim and I pitched in and worked around the place during his two weeks off we could accomplish a lot."

If that is the way you are thinking, perhaps you ought to think again. Family vacation trips pay many dividends. A trip away from home takes a family entirely away from their everyday problems. It gives them new things to see, new experiences to enjoy.

IT FREES THEM FOR A LITTLE WHILE from pattern living. And even when they aren't as comfortable as they are at home they have more interesting things to think about than their own comfort.

A trip reawakens the spirit of adventure that settled home life often stifles.

Families away from home go in for all sorts of experiences they are forever putting off at home.

FAMILIES HAVE A CHANCE to really get acquainted when they are off on a trip together. They are more than usually dependent upon each other for companionship.

And last, but by no means least, home never looks so good as when you have returned to it after being away.

Not wasting time and money on a vacation trip may sound like a sensible idea. But not when you stop to think that any time you want to you can recall the happy memory of a past vacation.

Beauty After 40

By Edyth Thornton McLeod

AT this season of the year I receive a great many requests for information about Sun and Swim suits which will be suitable for women After Forty of all the different shapes and sizes.

Mature women should choose sun fashions with care. The brief and bare outfits are flattering only to the very young and slender but there are attractive fashions for all sizes, shapes and ages. If you take your sun in a deck chair on your roof, back yard or a beach, no matter where, you should wear a suitable outfit. Swim and sun suits with pleated skirts are flattering to the mature figure. Those in bright colors are not as flattering as black or navy blue.

For absorbing sun you need as much exposure as possible. Always keep a cape or a loose beach coat handy to throw on if you must walk across a crowded beach or descend in an elevator from a rooftop. Wraps made of terry cloth are best because they absorb oil, suntan preparations and water.

You must consider your skin when relaxing in the sun. Read directions on any suntan preparation and follow the directions to the letter.

Wally Cox's Pal Peter Turgeon

Actor in Muni Opera's 'Allegro' Was Best Man at Friend's Wedding

By Edward Kosmal

WHEN it comes to people who double in brass, Peter Turgeon—a man who seems to be making a career of it—deserves some sort of a prize.

Take the "Mr. Peepers" television show, for instance. In this comedy series Turgeon was the man who ran the supermarket or the hotel or the radio station, depending on the script. And when the TV script called for shy, bespectacled Robinson Peepers to marry comely Nancy Remington, Turgeon looked like a man who would make a good usher at the make-believe wedding. He did.

This affinity for multiple roles projects itself into the off-stage life of Turgeon, who is making his St. Louis debut this week as Charlie Townsend in the Municipal Opera production of "Allegro."

So it was only natural that when Wally Cox took Marilyn Gennaro, a red-haired dancer, for his wife, there was a role for Turgeon. This time he was best man for real.

"It was a study in contrast," Peter reflects. "More than 35,000,000 viewers saw the 'Mr. Peepers' TV marriage. But one week later only a dozen of Wally's closest friends witnessed his simple wedding ceremony on the bank of the Chesapeake." The TV star and the Broadway dancer were married in June, 1954, on the Maryland estate of attorney Donald Seawell.

Turgeon's friendship with Cox antedates Wally's rise to video stardom. One memento of their long friendship is the wedding band Mrs. Turgeon (ballet dancer Virginia Richardson) wears. The ring was made by Wally himself, a former self-employed silversmith whose earnings at one time averaged about $40 a week. Wally still dabbles in the art, appearing on occasion by Turgeon.

WALLY fared well during the off-TV season when he and Turgeon combined their talents. In 1953 and '54 Peter directed successful summer stock productions of "The Vegetable" and "Three Men on a Horse," starring Wally Cox. Much better than the recent hired, fired, sued, rehired and refired fiasco that was to have been a four-week engagement for Cox at The Dunes Hotel in Las Vegas.

PETER TURGEON... A UTILITY MAN ON HIS FRIEND'S TV SHOW.

"Frankly I don't think the Vegas crowd is the kind of audience that would find Wally appealing," Turgeon commented. "They're not the type who would sit at home on an early Sunday evening to watch the wholesome 'Mr. Peepers' telecast."

Turgeon, father of two, Wendy, 4 years old, and Paul, who will be a year old this month, got his start on the legitimate stage via Lehigh University in Pennsylvania and the Bell Telephone Co. in Chicago. During a vacation Peter the student took a job with the phone company, but long before the summer was over Turgeon discarded both the job and any idea of returning to college.

Instead it appeared as if he were heading in a dozen different directions simultaneously. Going to New York he made his first stage appearance in "Life

With Father," starring Dorothy Gish and Louis Calhern in 1940.

Next it was a job clear on the other side of the country, as screen writer for M.G.M. (Two of his films: "The War Against Mrs. Hadley," starring Fay Bainter and Edward Arnold, and "An American Romance," with Brian Donlevy and Ann Richards.)

Then came four years in the Air Force and, eventually, a trip to Australia in "Brigadoon," after receiving his discharge from the service.

FOR a change of pace from the usual role of portraying roles, Turgeon turns to playwriting. His latest work, "Abbie," currently is under option for a fall production in New York. And for additional variety, there's directing. This summer he was director of "Brief Moment," which starred TV's Betty Furness.

Turgeon has done extensive TV work in addition to his "Mr. Peepers" roles, appearing in numerous dramatic productions. His next is scheduled to be a leading role on Kraft Theater Aug. 17. Title of the show? He doesn't know. Not having seen the script Peter has no idea of his role, either.

"But that's television," he explains. "Someone calls to inquire whether you're interested in a TV role for a certain night. After accepting you can determine the importance of the role by the amount of money you will receive since the pay scale is standard."

Nor is this all. To release any dormant energy, Peter—a native of Hinsdale, Ill., now living in New York City—has a profitable hobby. His oils (Shirley Booth, Beatrice Lillie and Wally Cox each own one of his paintings) are sold by the American Contemporary Galleries in New York.

And daughter Wendy seems to be following in father's fast-moving footsteps. She appeared in her first "carry-on" role Down Under in "Brigadoon." But, alas, there is a skeleton in the Turgeon family closet; poor little Paul, almost a year old and nothing much to show for it.

Angry Men Needed

We're Short on Righteous Wrath

By Mary Margaret McBride

WHERE, I wonder, are God's Angry Men? Mostly in fiction these days, I'm afraid, or perhaps locked up somewhere as potential menaces. I saw one in a play on television the other night and read about another in a current novel—both of them angry at injustice and cruelty and brave enough to take issue at great cost to themselves.

Even though I knew they were only dreamed up by the authors, I felt better, more hopeful, after encountering them.

A doctor who is treating a young woman I know for a skin ailment recently counseled her to be serene.

"But that doesn't mean you shouldn't ever get angry," this wise man added. "Anger isn't bad. You SHOULD get angry about some things, but remember that it is the things that anger you which tell the world what kind of person you are."

ACCORDING TO THAT, most of us reveal some rather shabby selves for we fire up ridiculously at trivialities that shouldn't move our blood pressure a notch; at a slight, real or fancied; at a difference of opinion; at opposition when we want something and can't have it. But most of us have experienced mighty little of the other anger, the good kind.

Righteous anger has through the centuries righted wrongs, overthrown governments, deposed kings and produced the Magna Carta, the Declaration of Independence and the Four Freedoms. All through history we see examples of anger which gave men such superhuman strength and power that it must have surprised even themselves. Among those whom this sacred anger has made immortal are certain Washington, aroused at injustices to the colonies; Lincoln, enraged that our nation did not treat men as equal, and John Peter Zenger, whose fury led him to fight for freedom of the press.

Their anger was selfless—a vital stirring that made them forget themselves and their ambitions. I have always been proud of William Dean Howells who was a best-selling novelist, dean of American literature and the esteemed editor of an important magazine, when he became so disturbed by what he believed was injustice in the Haymarket Riot case in Chicago that he put in jeopardy everything he was and had or hoped to have.

IN ANY DICTIONARY of biography their names leap out at you, men who died for their beliefs: Socrates, Savonarola, Robert Emmet, Gandhi. Whether you agree with them or not, you have to respect and admire their courage and determination.

Too many of us, the very ones who spill over with rage when our pride is wounded or the weather is trying or life boring, stand indifferently by, unmoved by double-dealing, viciousness or lies when they aren't happening to us.

The author of a recent article about Hitler's Germany and his Storm Troopers commented that he was not so terrified by the sight of the bullies raising their fists as he was when he saw bystanders carefully turning their heads away so they wouldn't see the brutality and feel obliged to help.

With so much to be righted, we need Angry Men who will not turn their heads away.

Mrs. McBride

DESIGN today puts furniture up in the air—and keeps it rolling. This new furniture particularly, by one of our contemporary designers, the new First Lady grouping by Edward J. Wormley and just previewed for fall is in cherry, natural, golden, or so pale it's almost white, with brass bases.

UP IN THE AIR AND ROLLING.

The bases are pedestal in type and are unusually tall. They take narrow stretchers between pedestal-like forms for the larger pieces and these are on smooth-running casters. A double dresser 64 inches long seems to float in the air this way just as the lighter pieces do.

This is bedroom furniture, although it will find its way into other rooms. The single drawer design may be either a desk or a dressing table, and there are tall chests as well as long ones.

For small pieces, tripod bases are used, again in brass, as seen in the sketched slightly wedge-shaped night table and the chair. The chair revolves and has a hinged cane-paneled posture back. (Furniture by Dunbar.)

There's a piece of furniture at your house which would be twice as nice if the finish were beautiful. Send for Elizabeth Hillyer's booklet "Furniture Refinishing—How to Do It Yourself" and learn how to bring out good looks you never knew your furniture had. Address: Miss Hillyer at the Post-Dispatch and enclose 15 cents in coin, please, with a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

New Fall Shades

Camel-tan is a shade that many of the designers like for fall costumes of the casual type. Hattie Carnegie uses it for hats as well as for suits. One берет is typical of the new season. Yarn in this shade is used to trim some hats of charcoal gray. Many camel-colored coats and jackets are appearing in the stores to be worn with the new shades of green featured for wool dresses or with skirts in the many popular brown tones.

Today's Pattern

You'll love this new dress for festive summer evenings, or early fall—in soft silk shantung, late-summer sheers, draped to a graceful shoulder tie.

Pattern 4867: Misses' Sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 16 takes 37½ yards 39-inch fabric.

Apricot Rice Stuffing

Ingredients: One tablespoon butter or margarine, one medium size onion (chopped), one-half cup parsley (minced), three cups cooked rice, one and one-half cups (11-ounce package) dried apricots (ground), one-half cup pitted ripe olives (chopped), one teaspoon salt, one and one-half teaspoons poultry seasoning, one-half teaspoon thyme, one-eighth teaspoon ground cloves, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one cup liquefied nonfat dry milk.

Method: Melt butter in large skillet; add onion and cook until slightly browned. Stir in parsley, rice, apricots, olives, salt, poultry seasoning, thyme, cloves and pepper; mix well. Gradually stir in liquefied nonfat dry milk. Cool slightly before using as stuffing for a five to six pound duck that is to be roasted.

Informal Wear

For afternoon and informal evening wear Chanda has designed a high crowned bonnet of yellow-dyed American broadtail and golden beads. White feather wings are handsome, seasonally trimming on a little black velvet hat introduced by another milliner. G. Howard Hodge has a cut-out cap trimmed with rhinestones and bugle beads, and adds a jewel-embroidered white satin caplet to complete a season's iridescent sequins and curled black plumage are dramatically applied to a coral colored velvet hat as another evidence of the brilliance of fall millinery.
